NO TRACE OF MISSING COLONEL ROBINS

Secrecy Shrouds Search Under Way To Locate Robins

Noted Dry Leader And Economist Is Strangely Missing

WIFE FEARS HE IS KIDNAPING VICTIM

Col. Robins Was Supposed To Make Visit To President Hoover

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—On direct orders from the White House, the vast inquisitory mechanism of the government was thrown in gear today for a fine tooth combing of the eastern seaboard for Col. Raymond Robins, nationally known dry leader who has been missing since last Saturday.

Thus far not a trace of Robins, a warm friend of President Hoover, has been found. There appeared to be no valuable clews.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—In strange contrast to other searches for vanished persons, extraordinary secrecy today shrouded the far-flung search directed by the missing persons bureau for Colonel Raymond Robins, noted economist and speaker.

All details of the steps taken to trace the prominent dry leader, missing since shortly before he was to have an audience with President Hoover in Washington, were refused by acting Captain John H. Ayres of the bureau.

Making-Check-up

However, police and detectives and some federal agents were known to be engaged today in a check-up of hospitals, hotels and clubs in trace of Col. Robins or some one

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc notes that work is progressing rapidly on the two new buildings being erected in the downtown district. The Matthews-Garbett building will soon be ready to put on the roof, the brick work having been practically completed, while the new Woods block is nearing the second story height.

New quarters are still comparatively scarce about the city, Pa Newc observes. Most of the local banks had a large supply of the old quarters on hand and they are still being circulated.

Sidewalk talk: "Doesn't this August-September weather fool a person? . . . "And how's school going?" . . . "Had a flat and no spare tire returning from vacation" . . . "Oh, the water won't be too cold (oh no!)" . . . "If a driver would only stick to the road maps they wouldn't get lost—they're simple things!" . . . "Do you think Schenck had anything to do with the Lindbergh kidnapping?" . . . "It must be terrible on Jean Harlow" . . . plus those wild and wilder rumors.

They tell the one about New Castle cottagers along the Slippery Rock creek adopting a wild duck for one of their camp pets. Even though camping time has ended and most cottage dwellers have left, still someone must go out occasionally to feed old "Oswald." It's as friendly as anything, they say. It flitted here from somewhere this spring.

And when the opening whistle sounds for the New Castle-Union football game the night of September 16—a week today—you can count

Prices higher than current market values for commodities will prevail, according to the university authorities. Dr. H. W. McPerson, president of the Methodist college, is shown accepting 40 sacks of potatoes as tuition from John Dickinson, of Abingdon, Illinois, who now becomes a student.

Haul More Rural Pupils This Year

Three New Transportation Systems Cover Rural Districts This Year

TWO TOWNSHIPS DO NOT HAUL STUDENTS

Each year sees an increase in the number of pupils being transported in the rural districts to schools centrally located, three new transportation lines having been put in use in different rural districts this year.

Pulaski township has established a new bus route transporting pupils along the east side of the Shenango to schools in the rural districts and to New Castle high school.

Mahoning township is transporting all high school students residing north of the Mahoning river to Union High school this year because of the threatened close of the New Castle-Lowellville traction line. Approximately 35 high school students are being transported to Union high school by bus.

Another new bus line which is hauling students is that in Wayne township, a route having been established along the Duck Run road to the New Castle-Ellwood City road and thence into Ellwood City, where the students are attending Ellwood City high school.

There are only two townships where pupils are not being transported this year by the township school officials. These are Neshannock township and Slippery Rock township.

Washington township, which has but one schoolhouse in the entire township is hauling its pupils to Harlansburg and Eastbrook where there are consolidated schools.

Transportation used to be furnished in Neshannock township but the township is involved in litigation the two buses are tied up under a court order and pupils must walk or provide their own transportation.

Search For Missing Air Liner Reveals Plane Had Crashed

FOURTH PASSENGER CRITICALLY INJURED

Missing Plane Is Located In Desolate Country In South West

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9.—Widespread search for a missing airliner of the American Airways came to a tragic end early today when the gnarled wreckage of the huge plane was located with three of its occupants dead and a fourth critically injured.

The smashed and fire-eaten plane and its ghastly cargo were discovered on a rugged stretch of desolate country between Salt Flat Field and the Guadalupe Mountains.

The Dead:

Bryant Robbins of Fort Worth, pilot.

Francis W. Briggs, of Dallas, co-pilot.

Victor Allman of Los Angeles, passenger.

The injured man was G. A. Davidson of Richmond, Calif., who was extricated from the ruins of the plane, suffering from critical burns.

Word of discovery of the wrecked air liner and the victims was conveyed to the American Airways office here in a meagre radio message from one of the company's planes which participated in the all night search for the missing ship.

Save for the fact that the three men were dead and the fourth injured, no details of the tragedy were incorporated in the radio message.

The ship took off on a regularly scheduled flight from El Paso early yesterday.

Fog and unfavorable flying weather over the mountain region was believed to have caused the crash.

NEAR 2,000 IN HIGH CLASSES

Opening Day Figure Holds While Routine Study Begins; Plan Chapel

Enrollment figures at senior high school, which climbed to a new high peak on the opening day, maintained the same level today as classes for the first week came to a close. There were 1,950 students attending, Principal Frank L. Orth reported.

The attendance roll gave sure indications that the school will graduate its two largest classes during the term which has just begun. Approximately 250 are enrolled in the January class with 300 in the senior B division.

Principal Orth said chapels would likely start next week, with a booster assembly for the New Castle-Union game carded as the first. Football play opens a week from today.

Not a teacher was absent from the senior high rooms as school continued today.

Men Were Starting For Island To Work On Construction Of Building

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Twenty-eight workmen were dead, 75 injured in the hospitals and an undetermined number missing as the result of a sudden explosion today aboard the steamer "Observation" in the East River off 136th street.

The vessel was carrying 150 workmen to Riker's Island. The steamer blew up as it was backing out of its slip and sank almost immediately.

The death, injured and missing toll was given by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney who assumed charge of the rescue work. The commissioner said that a definite check-up would be made of the payroll of the contractors employing the victims for building operations on Riker's Island.

Recover Bodies From River

Bodies recovered from the river were taken to emergency morgues established on the Bronx shore.

Father Robert Mulcahy, pastor of St. Luke's Roman Catholic church and Father Michael Luce, of the same church, were among the first to reach the scene. They tended the injured and the dying.

The workmen aboard the ill-fated vessel were most skilled workers—carpenters, iron workers and steel employes—who were engaged in building a new penitentiary on Riker's Island.

They gathered their tools on the

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 9.—George Krall, 72, of Wheatland, today entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder before Judge James A. McLaughry in the case, in which he was charged with the murder of his son-in-law Martin Pelles, 49, on June 22, last. The plea was acceptable to the court and he will be sentenced later.

On the date mentioned, he and the son-in-law had an ususually bitter quarrel, which was in fact the climax of a continuous series of quarrels that lasted six months.

Pelles went to get a constable and on his return, Krall fired at him with a shotgun. Pelles was trying to get up after the first shot, when Krall shot a second time, killing Pelles.

Making Progress On Securing Releases

Expect Definite Action On West Pittsburg Road Contract In Near Future

County commissioners report that the work of securing releases of property holders along the West Pittsburg road, has not yet been completed, but it is expected that something definite may be announced within the next few days. Nearly all the owners of land through which the new road will pass have signed up. There are less than half a dozen agreements yet to be signed. The commissioners are anxious to get the releases out of the way, so that they can approve awarding of the contract. If the contractor is able to start soon it will be possible to complete the road before winter.

The weather man has a queer streak on, he's having his joke like as not one day it's so cool that your whiskers are stiff and the next is probably hot. He's testing his weather for days that will come, and trying to find some that's right, but I wish for a while he would temper things off at about ten o'clock, say at night. For its chilly out our way, the night nips your nose, and it's bad for the turnips and hay, and I wish he would test somewhere else for a change, warm and seventy two today.

Eye Witness Tells Of Steamer Explosion

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Second Officer F. L. Callis of the S. S. Freeman of the Pochahantas Line was one of the few eye witnesses to the tragic explosion of "The Observation" today.

Visibly shaken by the horror of the scene he told the story of the explosion and of his subsequent efforts to save the lives of those who were struggling in the water.

"I was standing on the deck" he said "looking out toward the observation when suddenly I heard that awful explosion. It sounded like a Big Bertha and I stood there frozen as the ship seemed to rise in the air, disintegrate into a thousand pieces, and hurl men in every direction.

"I saw one body tossed through a plate glass window and another thrown fifty feet in the air to land again an iron pole in front of the Sypsum plant near the water front. The body struck like the tragic scene from a moving picture. For a moment I was stunned—then I shouted to four seamen to lower a boat.

"We hurried it into the water and paddled around. We pulled four men out of the water—all unconscous and all bleeding horribly. We brought them to shore, and turned them over to the ambulance doctors who were beginning to arrive."

DECLARES DAVIS WILL NOT WITHDRAW

Philadelphia Chairman Declares James J. Davis Stays In Race

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE TODAY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—Senator James J. Davis will not withdraw from his campaign for re-election to the U. S. Senate.

This revelation was made here today by James M. Hazlett, chairman of the local Republican City committee. The disclosure came following a trip to Washington by Hazlett and Gen. Edward Martin, state Republican chairman.

Recently Gov. Gifford Pinchot had called upon Martin to drop Davis as the senatorial candidate of the Pennsylvania Republicans. He termed Senator Davis a "lottery racketeer."

Gen. Martin has no intention of accepting the governor's advice to pre-empt a ticket with a new candidate for the Senate, according to Hazlett.

on a rousing delegation supporting both local schools in the grandstand. That should be some game.

What the township school boards will do about abandoning girls' basketball in their athletic programs remains to be seen. The principals have stacked their sentiment on the abandonment side.

Most colleges and universities still have a week or more to go before they start. As yet the majority of the students at higher schools of learning haven't left.

Pigeons may be seen about parts of the city in groups tomorrow, for there's another of the 100-mile air races listed to be held. From Loudensville, Ind., a flock of 50 birds will race to their owners here.

While you may have been worrying about the extreme cool weather the last few days for fear frost might kill off the tomatoes and other late vegetables, your fears may be groundless. Pa Newc notes that we had a similar cool spell in September last year, but—the temperature gradually warmed up and reached the unusual mark of 98 degrees on September 13.

Corporal Brady Paul's honor marker over the Butler road site where he fell in the tragic battle with Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague is not forgotten on holidays. Pa Newc noticed Labor Day that a flag, placed each holiday by an honor patrol of Troop 10 Boy Scouts, was flying. The same patrol took part in the monument's unveiling. P. H. Barge is the scoutmaster.

Alderman L. C. Mantz believes this hitch-hiking fad is winning more converts. Back home from a motor trip through southwestern Pennsylvania and parts of Maryland, he tells of the army of highway 'thumbers' who hail motorists all along the way. He reports the back-to-school road parade of college students has begun.

BOAT CARRYING 150 WORKMEN EXPLODES IN RIVER AT NEW YORK

Bronx shore between 8 and 8:30 a. m. and boarded the boat.

Terrific Roar

The vessel had barely cleared the dock when a terrific roar was heard and the air was filled with flying bodies and debris.

An emergency police call started a search of the waters by harbor patrol craft and volunteer rescue vessels.

As soon as Commissioner Mulrooney arrived on the scene some semblance of order began to come out of the chaos.

The task of identifying the bodies seemed at first a hopeless one until Moolrooney discovered a man who had missed the boat and who had been standing on the dock as the explosion occurred. This man, Ted Maureau, a fellow workman of the victims told Mulrooney that he knew many of them. He was ushered into the emergency hospital which had been established in the two story wooden house owned by the Riverside Boat Club.

Identify Six

There were nine bodies lying on the floor, most of them mangled horribly, with their features almost beyond recognition. With the help of Maureau, police identified six of them as follows:

T. Condy.
John McAndee.
Murray Forzer, (all thee from New York City).
Everett Towle, Yonkers.
Tony Kessler, Bronx.
Anton Stroeble, Brooklyn.

Against the official estimate of casualties from Commissioner Mulrooney was the statement from the P. J. Carlis Construction Company, which leased the vessel, that 37 bodies had been recovered.

Captain Missing

Among the missing was Captain George Forsythe, skipper and owner of the ship. He lived at West Brighton, Staten Island.

The wooden steamer, once a Manhatten sightseeing yacht, was reported reconditioned about three years ago.

The boat was 92 feet long.

After the explosion, about 50 feet offshore, the ship stayed afloat only a few seconds The blast apparently came from a boiler bursting, for a stream of boiling water shot upwards and fell upon the victims in the water.

Aid Is Rushed

The river was dotted with bodies of the dead and dying, with the bobbing heads of the injured in the water seen from the shore. In addition to the police boats the coast guard sent four ships. Fifteen ambulances came from Knickerbocker, Lincoln and Harlem hospitals. They were loaded with nurses and doctors.

The bodies flew through the air like the timber from the boat. Some landed in small boats tied up at the shore. Others landed on buildings, one on a high pole.

All of the victims were employed by the P. J. Carlin Construction Company, which leased the boat for ferrying the workmen to Riker's Island.

Seventy-five of the injured victims were treated at hospitals. Twenty of these were said to be seriously injured.

Many of the dead and injured had gotten their first jobs after a lengthy period of unemployment.

The tragedy took place within a few hundred feet of where the General Slocum burned and sank on June 15, 1904, with a loss of 1,100 lives.

Less than a year ago, the wooden vessel, formerly a sight-seeing craft, had sunk in the bay at Kearney, N. J.

An investigation of the explosion was immediately started by federal and Bronx county authorities.

A hearing will be held here on Monday before the steamship inspection service to determine any responsibility for the disaster.

The explosion was attributed to a boiler blowing up.

James Smith, boiler inspector in charge of the New York district, will conduct the federal hearing.

A report reached Smith that "it was a practice" aboard the "Observation" to hold down the boiler safety valve, to expedite getting up steam.

Records at the customs house showed that the boilers of the vessel were last replaced in 1908.

Order Probe Of Plans To Reduce Freight Rates

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered an investigation of the proposal of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia railroad to reduce freight rates on bituminous coal from points in western Pennsylvania to Cleveland, Lorain and Huron, O., and certain intermediate Ohio destinations.

Under the proposed new schedules the rate from Avella, Pa., to Cleveland and Lorain would be reduced from 1.84 cents per ton of 2,000 pounds to $1.55, while the rate to Huron would be reduced from $1.84 to $1.65.

In the meantime the commission suspended the operation of the proposed schedules until April 9 next.

relief should eventually be prevented from obtaining food orders but if need exists at present to issue the orders first and make investigations later.

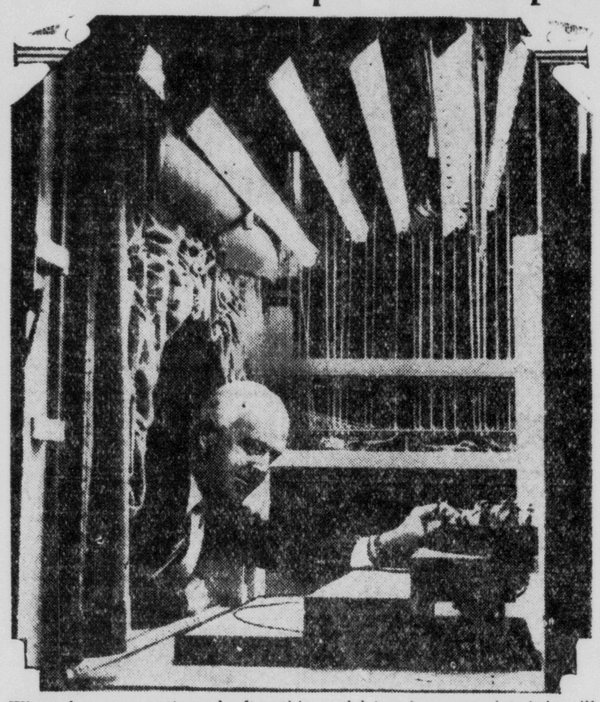

As soon as the present emergency is met the state relief board will require county agencies to make certain that there is no duplication of relief and that all unworthy applicants be eliminated.

To Prevent Abuses

The state board is anxious to prevent repetition of abuses which resulted in the distribution of the original $10,000,000 from the state treasury. In one instance a Philadelphia man was operating a grocery store on the food obtained from relief agencies.

At the same time the govenor's office issued a list of allocations of relief money to 25 counties and named the agencies in each which have been authorized to distribute the food orders. W. B. Rodgers, the executive secretary of the board said that additional allocations will be approved Monday and that in no instance would it be impossible for counties to distribute food orders pending formal approval at headquarters here. The allocations approved for the 25 counties was the total of which they were entitled for September.

When the stage patterned after this model has been completed, it will seem to bear testimony to the truth of Shakespeare's much-quoted utterance that "All the world's a stage," for the cream of the world's talent will perform here. Peter Clarke, who is building the stage, is shown with the model.

who might have seen him since his strange disappearance.

The colonel checked out of the City Club, where he stayed for two days while in this city, last Saturday. A puzzling angle developed later when it was found he left his baggage in his room. It had been presumed he was on his way to the capital to keep his appointment with President Hoover, but so far as anyone was aware, he never reached Washington.

That Col, Robins recently received a threat, probably from bootleggers for his consistent advocacy of enforcement of the prohibition law, was confirmed by his friends, Dr. Fred B. Smith, White Plains.

Col. Robins, long active on behalf of the allied forces for prohibtion, was known both as a staunch prohibitionist and a battler in behalf of world peace.

Fears Kidnaping

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Me., Sept. 9—Grave fear that her husband, Col. Raymond Robins, has been kidnaped by Florida rum runners or a national syndicate of bootleggers was expressed today by Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the famous social economist.

Colonel Robins was enroute to Washington to see President Hoover when he disappeared in New York City.

"His activities against bootleggers on the Northwest coast of Florida" said Mrs. Robins, "lead me to believe that he has fallen victim of that gang or some national bootlegging organization."

Mrs. Robins revealed that her husband was especially active against a bootleg ring in the vicinity of Fernando and Brookville, Fla. about fifty miles north of Tampa.

Finish Fight

KENNEBUNK BEACH, Me., Sept. 9—A finish fight with crime by the federal government was urged today by Samuel O. Levinson, of Chicago, attorney and close friend of Colonel Raymond Robins, who disappeared in New York.

"If the underworld has Colonel Robins, I will immediately appeal to President Hoover to declare martial law and tight it out with crime" said Levinson. "If we are going to have a war, let us have a war of extermination of undesirables here at home."

"Colonel Robins is not afraid of the devil and fights for what he thinks is right and what he believes to be the truth and is cast in the heroic mould," said the lawyer.

COL. ROBINS IS WELL KNOWN HERE

Col. Raymond Robins is well known to New Castle audiences. About a year ago he appeared here as a speaker of the Allied Forces, and previous to that had appeared as a speaker on the program of the Woman's Club. Still prior to that he was in New Castle during the war in the interests of the American Red Cross. To many New Castleites he is known personally and thousands have heard him speak.

Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger was present and gave instructions as to how the work should be done.

A different group of workers will be notified to meet next week.

Low Levels In Streams Hinder Stocking Of Fish

Fall Distribution In Some Sections Is Being Delayed

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Low water in many streams of the state has handicapped the distribution program of the fish commission, Oliver M. Deibler, fish commissioner, said today. Trout stocking, in particular, has been hindered, owing to the extremely low levels prevailing in many mountain and meadow streams.

The stream survey, now nearly completed, has proved an effective weapon against the drought. Larger trout and bass waters, approved in the survey, now rank as best possibilities for the distribution of fish. Although affected by low water, these streams still provide sufficient area for forage and protection of stocked fish.

Drought conditions this year have reduced many of the waterways of the commonwealth to levels below the low water marks of the 1930 season. Not only has this shrinkage of streams struck a hard blow to aquatic plant life essential to the growth of minute organisms, but it has exposed trout to their natural enemies—mink, raccoon, herons and other predators.

HOOVER THE COUNTRY'S BEST BET

Senator Arthur Capper in "Capper's Weekly"

It seems to be a true commentary on history in general that the people of most nations have usually been slow to recognize great leaders in the times of crisis that brought them forth. In our own short history, we know that Lincoln, much criticised and humiliated, believed he could not be elected to a second term, although he was re-elected. Cleveland was scandalously abused, even by his own party. Roosevelt received more recognition while in office than most Presidents, but probably was not appreciated at his true worth during his lifetime. And it still is disputed whether Woodrow Wilson will or will not be classed as a great president.

In the White House at the present time, the country has a man who is not a spectacular President. President Hoover, as I know him, is too honest to be a grandstander. He has courage and backbone plus. His knowledge of world affairs, of our own affairs probably is surpassed by no other American. But he doesn't show off. He does not burn any red fire. He doesn't put on any sort of show, or stunt. He simply works at his job just as we work at ours, only longer and harder than most of us, and lets it go at that. Party politicians have always complained that Hoover never has tried to "sell" himself to the country. They want him to dramatize himself, as they call it; do some posing before the public once in awhile, as some pretty good Presidents have done to show us they were Presidents and get a hand when perhaps they needed it.

Not so with Hoover.

There has been drama enough in his life, goodness knows. He has met and overcome more appalling difficulties in the last 18 years than some of the great figures in history. The present occupant of the White House has done plenty of things to entitle him to the limelight, before, during, and since the War. But he takes these things as a matter of course in his methodical matter-of-fact way. He cannot or will not pose.

So recently as the last nine months, Hoover has been our pilot through a series of tremendous national emergencies. Two of these emergencies were unprecedented; we have never seen their like before. One of them threatened the total collapse and impoverishment of this nation. It came after economic distress and credit prostration, resulting in panics, had brought about revolutions in 20 countries. Three-quarters of the population of the globe was affected.

The whole world had been shaken. Not one country escaped and it was our turn.

At one of the gravest moments of our own uncertainty, some of our good men and true became alarmed, then frightened, then lost their heads. But the President kept his.

At a White House conference of Republicans and Democrats from both houses of Congress, now nearly a year ago, President Hoover virtually made known his entire program of financial and economic relief.

It is when you see a man in action day after day under stress, as I have seen Hoover, that you really come to know him for what he is.

The critical moment I have in mind, was when winter was upon us last year. Millions of men were out of work, our public revenues had nearly dried up. To a large extent private incomes also had disappeared. Then foreign countries began withdrawing more than 2,400 million dollars from the United States. This included one billion dollars of our gold reserve. Where was it going to stop? Fear seized the people, they took more than 1,600 million dollars of their savings from the banks and hid the money.

The storm was world-wide, an after-war collapse, which, in our case, followed a colossal wave of stock market speculation and gambling. That only made it all the worse for us.

Many of us are only now beginning to appreciate how the President met all this with what may truly be called "the most gigantic program of economic defense and counter-attack" ever evolved in our history. Had the President failed us, had he weakened, it is not too much to say there would not be a bank open in America today. The whole economic and industrial fabric of the country would have been wrecked or paralyzed, and we ourselves would have gone down in the wreck.

Critics to be sure, have been free to critcize. They criticized even more in Lincoln's time. But they have been extremely backward about proposing any plans of their own. They have had little to offer except criticism.

During those trying months no one saw Hoover flinch or tremble. His courage and backbone were of the kind called for by the occasion. He stood grimly at his post. He stood over Congress for 8 months with his program that has saved us—until his patience and persistence won. Until, as William Allen White puts it, "he won more than any other President ever won in any other 8 months." It was legislative leadership "unmatched in American history."

During these crucial 8 months the President had to resort to heroic measures to block the famous Garner "pork barrel" bill. The Garner bill would have compelled us to tax ourselves for more than 3,000 millions of dollars for thousands of unneeded postoffices and for an enormous number of unremunerative public enterprises. During this time also President Hoover succeeded in cutting down national expenditures more than 700 million dollars. Imagine what it would have meant to the country to put 4,000 million dollars more on the tax bill this year! Hoover saved us that, a saving too enormous to comprehend.

Only recently has the President told us the story of those 8 months in his own way in his speech of acceptance. Mark Sullivan, the historian and political writer, finds nothing like it in all our history. He calls this address the most unvarnished, straight-forward state paper of its kind ever written. Hoover's honest frankness sticks out all over it.

In this document, the earnestness, the determination, the devotion of the President to the country, is evident. But it is the plainest kind of talk. I do not believe anyone can read this acceptance address without being convinced of the true greatness of the man; without having his faith renewed in American principles of government.

I am unable to find any good reason for dispensing with the services of such a President at such a time, to put in his place a man of less experience and far less attainment. What great corporation would change its president under such circumstances? Would it be a wise move at this time for the people of the United States to turn over the entire administrative government of this nation to a lot of new and inexperienced hands?

There is a time-honored American adage of pioneer days which counsels us against swapping horses in midstream. Our troubles are not over. We have got to rebuild, got to restore the entire country. This is not the time to dispense with the services of the man who knows all about the biggest job of reconstruction that has confronted a President since Civil War times.

For 10 years Mr. Hoover has had in mind a plan to simplify our entire system of national government. He has it all mapped out in a chart that can be understood at a glance. But he has so constantly had to contend with emergencies that he has had to defer putting this plan into execution during his first term of office. One of the last bills passed by Congress gave the President authority to begin this work at the next session. Our last four Presidents have recognized the need of a drastic reform of this kind, but we have never before had a President who knew how to go about it.

So far as politics is concerned, the country may well face the facts. Herbert Hoover, tried by fire, tested by adversity, strengthened by responsibility, fitted now by training and by responsibility, is the country's best bet in the four years of reconstruction that are ahead of us. We cannot spare such a man at such a time.

Eating Like A Pig
"We're Not Permanent"
She Pities Men

By MARSHALL MASLIN

An old, old man who lies far up in the country and keeps a little hotel and is very, very fat, has ideas of his own about eating and drinking . . . He's lively and healthy and interested in everything, despite his 250 pounds and his 78 years. And he says:

"I get up early and eat very little. Keep busy all morning and eat a small lunch. At night I get up to the table and I eat everything, enjoy everything I eat. I stuff myself like a big pig and then I go to sleep like a good pig. And my food digests while I am sleeping."

What would the doctors say about that?

There's a family on a ranch in the cattle country. Grandfather and his family came there nearly fifty years ago and rented the place. They have been renting ever since, are renting still. . . .

There are no trees, no gardens around their house. . . . Forty years ago a man remembers suggesting that they plant green stuff around their home, but he was told it was hardly worth doing because they didn't intend to stay. . . . So the house is still bare of shrubbery and they still say they don't intend to remain. . . .

I wouldn't be smiling at those people if I were you. We've all done foolish things.

A little girl said, first, that she'd like to be a tree and when she was reminded that trees cannot run and play she said she'd like to be her cat. . . .

Then she was told that cats do not live so very long, no more than ten or fifteen years; and she gravely remarked that they all had nine lives, didn't they? . . .

Did you ever try to win an argument with a child? They have eels in their mind and they slip away from you.

A woman who used to wish she were man said, "I don't wish that any more. Not since I've had a child I don't. Now I pity them because they know so little of life. And when they are arrogant about their sex and its powers and possibilities I can't help smiling at how little they know."

WHEN TIME LAGS

When you begin to lag you are not interested.

If the time goes slowly when you work and you cannot get up energy and enthusiasm, you are slipping.

Convinced of this, why not prod yourself a bit?

Push yourself hard, get up a little pep and ginger, if necessary get completely out of patience with yourself and dig in.

When you get some such purpose stirred up your movements become faster and the time slips away rapidly.

The days begin to pass quickly, your spirits will rise in spite of your anger at your past stupid indifference.

Interest brings concentration and greater and better accomplishment results.

Bue when every day is thought of just so many hours of hard labor no wonder life becomes stale and the time drags.

The happiest people around you are the hustlers.

To them work is not difficult.

They shove things along, cheerfully, in well directed effort.

And these are the most appreciated employes—the hustlers who make themselves like whatever they have to do and you can do it, too.

HERE'S A FUNNY ONE

The late Dr. Janeway was one of New York's great physicians. To him came the elite of the country, yet he gave much of his time and services to many who could not afford to pay high fees. There was nothing pompous about Dr. Janeway. His trousers were always baggy, his reddish beard scraggly and as his kindly eyes looked over his steel-rimmed spectacles, the fears that weighed down the patient's heart lightened. One of Dr. Janeways' aversions was the rich woman, who tried to impose upon his good nature for free medical advice. On one occasion, as the doctor, who was a music-lover, strolled into the lobby of the Metropolitan Opera House between the acts, one of these women fluttered over to him. Her eyes were red and moist, as was her nose, but that was not because she had been moved to sadness by the pitiful Pagliacci of Caruso. "Doctor," she asked, holding in her hand an overworked handkerchief, "what do you do when you have a cold?" The doctor's eyes twinkled as he looked at her over his steel-rimmed spectacles. "I sneeze," he replied.

The minister, seeing the situation and likewise using scripture quietly replied: "I am neither Abraham, nor Isaac, nor Jacob, but Saul, the son of Kish, who went forth to hunt his father's asses and behold, I have found them."

The professor had just finished a lecture on the history of germs and as there were still a few minutes left before the close of the class, he called upon one of the students for a brief description of the origin of germs. The student thought hard for a moment, wrinkled his brow, then, with a grin that reflected a ray of light upon a dark subject, he answered. "Adam had 'em."

Anaesthetics For Oysters Arouse Public Speculation

Advice From Government Employe As To Method Of Opening Bivalves Received With Doubt And Some Queries About Feelings Of Shellfish

The oyster as the friend of man is a subject of friendly interest, following the statement from Dr. Vera Koehring of the Federal Bureau of Fisheries that this type of shellfish should be opened with an accompanying application of an anaesthetic. The scientist advises that the present method of removing the bivalve from the shell causes needless suffering, and that it would be beneficial to apply a mild solution of carbon dioxide, boric or lactic acid. Somewhat facetious is the attitude of the public to its application as an anaesthetic but real economic benefits are foreseen in its effect.

"The question has not been settled," says the CLEVELAND NEWS "but one thing is certain—the oyster has not been complaining." The News finds another matter of importance to be considered in connection with the arrival of the month in which the oyster begins to be a popular article of food, with the suggestion that "harvesting of the oyster crop called 100,000 men back to work," and that, "if the oyster can feel, it may be enjoying its role of martyrdom for the 100,000 who have been unemployed. Therefore," continues that paper, "you can have a clear conscience when you meet an oyster as you like—on the shell or in the stew."

Quoting Dr. Koehring's statement that "oysters have feelings like anybody else," the OMAHA-HERALD remarks: "We didn't know that—weren't sure of it, that is—but we know that oysters don't feel like anything else you can find in the encyclopedia. There is something about the way an oyster feels that defies description. Plop is the only word we can think of that might possibly approach it. An oyster plops. We don't know precisely what plop means, but if an oyster doesn't plop, we'd like to know what does. On second thought, we wouldn't. Oyster plops are enough for us. The World-Herald doesn't believe "you can squirt an aneasthetic into an oyster shell" and doubts "the plausibility of administering one of those generals that are breathed in through the nose and mouth," because it has "never seen an oyster shell that seemed to have either nose or mouth." It concludes: "The anaesthetic will have to be given direct to the oyster and the only way to do that, as we understand oysters, is first to open the shell so that you can get in there to it, and then it's too late. Opening the shell, says the scientist, is the very thing that hurts so."

"All but the most ferocious citizens" in the opinion of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "will be strongly in favor of the anaesthetized oyster. This succulent creature," contends The News, "is too good a friend of man to have unnecessary suffering inflicted on it. Enjoyment of the delicacy, in any form, should be heightened by knowledge that the oyster, instead of being ravished rudely from its shell, is removed while it is wrapped in sweet oblivion." The Evening News, while suspecting that the advice "may easily have caused perturbation of the assembled oysterman," when first given to them," concludes that the method is simple, and finds an added feature in the fact that "the process is economical as well as humane," for it "reduces the cost of shucking from 25 cents to 2 cents a gallon."

The economy phase of the subject interests the COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE, which points out that the anaesthetic "would put the oyster to sleep with its shell open," with the result that oystermen who "would not be interested in this process for the sake of the oyster alone," would find it "highly profitable if the oysters are induced to go to sleep and leave their portals wide, so that they may be extracted therefrom at a trifling cost."

"No one will put obstacles in the way of humane treatment of the oyster," declares the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, with the added comment: "Many will go even farther than Dr. Koehring. She asks only that the oyster's feelings be considered in the process of opening and that anaesthetics be used. She even prescribes dioxide, boric acid and lactic acid, which she says will throw the oysters into a coma and cause him to open his shell of his own accord. But kindness to the oyster should not end with the opening of the shell. Carry the humane treatment through to the end. Lactic acid, boric acid, dioxide! Pouf! No self-respecting oyster will be satisfied with such treatment. Lemon, vinegar, pepper, salt, perhaps Worestershire sauce. These are the real oyster anaesthetics. Any oyster that tries to come to a happy and glorious end without them is likely to find himself in the soup."

With a spirit of protest, the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT debates the subject. "Even at the risk of acquiring a reputation for cruelty to dumb animals," states that paper, "we shall go on preferring our oysters unanaesthetized. We are ready like Lewis Carroll's Walrus, to "shed a bitter tear" while picking out those of largest size, for we are not like the sanguinary Englishman whose first reaction to the stimulus of a beautiful morning is that he must go out rejoicing and kill something. So far we will go, though we are not ready to concede all that the lady claims. The evidence of the oyster's anguish at having its shell pried open is all on her side. We should like to hear from the oyster. Has it ever lifted up its voice in protest like its cousin the famous Duxbury clam whose dirge-like plaint, thin and clear, is heard sweeping over the strand there when the moon is low and the tide is far out? The oyster has no such power. It cannot even murmur like the spirit in an abalone shell. Not until we hear over the radio an oyster calling upon us piteously to take our bluepoints with a dash of laudanum instead of tobasco sauce shall we begin to take seriously the Washington lady's complaint of the oyster-opener's inhumanity to the oyster."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

BACK TO BARTER.

An art exhibition was recently opened in Paris under the name of "Salon des Exchanges." It was arranged that buyers of the works of art should pay for them not in money but in kind and make a bargain directly with the artist.

Painters and sculptors are suffering severely from the economic crisis, and it occurred to them that producers and tradesmen with surplus stocks might be disposed to barter goods for works of art. Attendance was good and fifteen transactions were concluded on the opening day.

A publisher paid for a picture with limited editions, another buyer exchanged railway passes (!) for a still life painting, and a third picture was exchanged for a case of champagne. Other barter included women's hats and dresses, an overcoat, a barrel of apples, a barrel of wine, a year's meals, at a restaurant, and a sanitary installation.

Prepare At Present To Save Nation In Next Depression Economist Beseeches U. S.

By DR. HARVEY N. DAVIS
President of Stevens Institute of Technology

The most significant contribution that could be made to the economic life of the nation at present is preparation for the next depression ahead.

While we are still discussing method of dealings with the depression of the past three years we are emerging, or about to emerge from it, unprovided with the boom into which we will move as heretofore, to be followed inevitably and probably more rapidly by another depression.

I propose a stabilization system for business oscillations compared to the stabilizing mechanism which checks the rolling of ships at sea.

The mechanical principle on which such stabilization is based is that it must come into operation during the early part of a swing, whether upward or downward, if the oscillation is to be flattened out. Applied to the economic system, it means that the restraint of business activity must begin at the very outset of the upswing and increase progressively until the downswing starts. At that phase, the restraint must turn into promotion of activity, such as deferred corporate construction, quasi-public works such as toll-bridges, subways, reaching finally the full compensating effect of a public works program prepared in advance of depression.

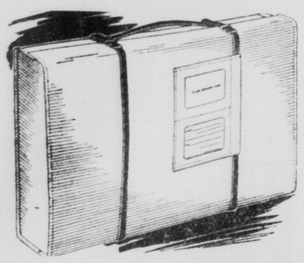

A reasonable sense of security for the result of individual and corporate thrift must be provided by the economic system. Everybody has been spending as little and saving as much as he possibly could. Yet a few prophets have recently begun to raise unpleasant doubts as to the wisdom of universal and unlimited thrift.

It has been argued that business cannot prosper in the absence of adequate buying power. Yet a large proportion of the current purchasing power of the community reaches the spenders in the form of wages and salaries; and the remainder in the form of dividends, interest or profits. These factors also make up the production cost of the nation's business. It is urged, therefore, that it is wicked to withhold any possible purchasing power, through thrift.

Some people are willing to pay wages and salaries, directly or indirectly, for the fabrication of things that they do not expect to sell, such as new factories, new production tools, new memorial libraries, new public buildings, new roads, new parks. These are capital goods, as distinguished from goods which are intended for final consumption. The capital goods are economic, such as new factories, when they represent an investment which some one believes will pay. They are social, such as public buildings, when they are not expected to pay.

If we are to do anything to modulate depression, it must be through capital goods, which are expected to yield a social rather than an economic return.

COAL BOOTLEGGERS ARE RESOURCEFUL

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 9—Coal bootleggers in this section are industrious and resourceful as well as daring, according to authorities.

Wholesale theft has occurred to such an extent that a road was recently constructed by the bootleggers for easy access to a mine south of Donora.

Gravity chutes have also been built to aid in carrying the coal away at night. The coal seam lies high on the river bank and the chutes were used to bring it down to trucks on the roadway along the stream.

Foresee Larger Classes In Continuation School

Along with regular schoolwork undertaken this week by a reported 10,657 public school students was the customary continuation classes conducted exclusively for children of school age who are employed.

At the George Washington junior high school, where classwork for boy and girl students is sponsored almost daily, the continuation department was getting rapidly under way today. Principal B. K. Thacker is supervising the continuation school.

Reports yesterday were that the number in attendance was steadily gaining. The enrollment for the 1931-32 term averaged between 40 and 50.

State law requirements which make it compulsory for working girls and boys between 14 and 16 years of age to have eight hours' instruction weekly, went into effect some time ago, and bring about the large attendance in the classes. To enter, an applicant must first present a domestic or general employment certificate.

The Washington classes, the school office announced, will be operated on the following schedule this year:

Girls' classes—Tuesdays and Fridays between 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Boys' classes—Mondays and Wednesdays between 8 a. m. and 12 noon.

Washington's regular enrollment totalled 756 the opening day.

Women said:
A fast working soap can't be safe!

BUT they didn't know about the New Oxydol then

● If sad experience with other soaps has convinced you that a soap able to soak dirt out quickly is too strong for colors and fine materials—try Oxydol. No longer need you spend extra time washing lingerie because you're afraid to use the same soap that whisks dirt out of sheets!

Women know now that rich suds are what do the extra work for them—that suds are the secret of all easy washing.

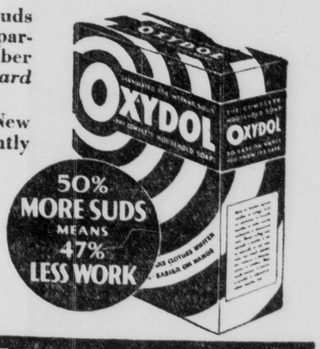

The New Oxydol's as mild as May—as kind to hands as it is to dainty things—yet it takes dirt out faster than any soap you've ever seen. Because it makes 50% more suds—richer, longer lasting suds that float dirt out and hold it out so clothes are fresh and fragrant—clean smelling suds that don't ball up or leave a scum.

Use it for dishes too. See how quickly those extra suds cut the grease—how easily they rinse off so dishes are sparkling clean—how much work they save you. And remember that Oxydol softens water. Even the softest water turns hard when you put in dirty clothes or dishes.

Ask your grocer today for a big package of the New Oxydol. Use enough to make rich suds—it dissolves instantly—and see how it lightens all your household tasks.

Semi-Finals In Tennis Tourney At Forest Hills

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Only a slim young collegian, just brash enough to be dangerous, and a grim, case-hardened campaigner, equally menacing, today stood between destiny and the long-awaited "million-dollar" match involving the tennis champions of two great continents, Henri Cochet and Ellsworth Vines. This, briefly was the situation as the four survivors of an original field of 128 made ready for the big show down in the semi-final round of the national championship in singles down there on the centre courts at Forest Hills this afternoon.

Cochet, the agile Frenchman, will marshal his deft stroking and matchless tactics against the resourceful, courageous attack of Wilmer Allison, the die-hard Texan, in one match. Vines, the defending champion, will meet Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion, in the other and before the day is done, a semi-capacity crowd of 10,000 will fairly totter under the impact of its emotions. They get that way during the general hysteria of big matches and these are the biggest since Tilden and Johnston passed from the pale, never to return.

Observations In 7th Ward

With the start of school: boys and girls busy filling tires of bicycles with air at the service stations . . . noisy crowds of youngsters in front of the school waiting for the doors to open . . . pencil boxes . . . teachers' automobiles parked in front . . . excited boys exclaiming that "there is a new set of weighing scales at school."

From North Beaver township comes a tale which may set a precedent in the farming districts. Sam Crawford, who lives this side of Moravia, has found a way to harrow his farm ground and at the same time enjoy a pleasant, cool ride. He has, it is said, hitched a buggy to the rear of the harrow. He rides under an umbrella and drives his team from the buggy.

Several railroad men who claim to have seen Crawford's contraption are wondering if they can't figure out some way to avoid walking back after running one of the engines down the grade at the "hump". Anything seems possible, they remark, admiringly.

Committees Meet For Revival Plans

Pastors Of Churches Will Call For Volunteers To Erect Tabernacle Next Week

"Everybody working makes it everybody's meeting and nobody working makes it nobody's meeting" said Evangelist A. W. McKee, campaign manager for the city wide revival service which will be conducted by the Philpott-McKee party in New Castle for a period of six weeks, beginning September 18, as he spoke before the members of the various committees as they assembled Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church.

Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, presided at the meeting and introduced A. W. McKee, campaign manager and song leader.

Dr. E. A. Crooks reported for the prayer-meeting committee, telling of the plans for holding cottage prayer services Tuesday and Thursday evenings of next week and on Tuesday and Thursday mornings during the revival. He has appointed Rev. R. J. Fredericks for the East New Castle district; J. C. Blevins, east side; C. Gaston, Oak street district; W. M. White, downtown; Jay Allsworth, west side; Rev. D. C. Schnebly, Seventh ward; Charles Bright, south side; M. E. Vaughn and Mrs. Calvin Smith, north hill, and C. J. Kenehan, Croton.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, chairman of the delegation committee reported the members were ready for action, and the first two weeks of the campaign will be given over to different "church" nights, with the delegations occupying a special section of the tabernacle.

Robert Hainer reported that the usher committee was functioning, with almost one hundred men enrolled to usher on the different nights.

T. A. Gilkey is chairman of the Tabernacle committee and the material for the tabernacle will arrive in the city this week, it being loaned for the period by an evangelistic party, and will be put in place by volunteer workers Tuesday of next week.

The pastors of the city are asked to get volunteer workers for this construction work and it is expected that several hundred men will be on hand Tuesday. Plans are being made to serve the men lunch at noon.

Carl Gustafson, chairman of the choir committee reported that appeals had been sent to all the city churches to solicit enrollment of all singers for the large choir, which will be formed.

Pinchot Demands Action On Request For State Aid Loan

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Gov. Pinchot today served notice on the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that unless action on his plea for a $45,000,000 loan to Pennsylvania's needy is facilitated by a slashing of red tape, he would take his case "directly to the president."

In a letter to Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the board of the government created corporation, Governor Pinchot said that delay on relief due to formal questionnaires, sent out by the organization as a prelude to loans is "cruel and unnecessary."

Dire Results If Democrats Win, Says Dickinson

Senator L. J. Dickinson, Of Iowa, Says Republicans Must Win In Fall

(International News Service)

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 9.—Dire consequences to industry and agriculture were predicted in the event of a Democratic victory in the national election this fall in an address Thursday by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa at the state fair grounds.

Senator Dickinson launched President Hoover's presidential campaign in the midwestern farming region with a vigorous defense of Republican protective tariff and a denunciation of Democratic free trade principles.

He pointed out that under the Democratic Underwood tariff act, producers from all parts of the world swamped American markets with food products. Under the Hawley-Smoot tariff of the present administration, he said, agriculture had reaped large benefits, particularly in the livestock industry.

'Israel Journeying Toward Canaan'

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Come thou with us, and we will do thee good.—Num. 10:29.

(The international uniform lesson for September 11 is Numbers 10:11-36, especially 11-13, 29-36, the Golden Text being verse 29, "Come thou with us, and we will do thee good.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

The Israelites were about three months en route from Egypt to Mount Sinai. They had camped at Sinai long enough to celebrate the first anniversary of their emancipation by observing the Passover and about a month later they set out from Sinai toward their promised land of Canaan.

It was to be a hard and perilous journey, and they were not to attack it after the fashion of a disorganized mob. This would have meant inevitable disaster. On the contrary, there was organization and divine order to the minutest detail. Every individual had his specific task assigned together with his place in the line of march or in camp. The tabernacle was central both in the encampment and on the march.

They marched and camped not when and whither their own impulses dictated, but as they were guided by the fiery centered cloud by which Jehovah symbolized his presence with his leadership over the nation: "It came to pass in the second year, in the second month, on the 20th day of the month, that the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle of the testimony. And the children of Israel set forward according to their journey out of the Wilderness of Sinai; and the cloud abode in the wilderness of Paran . . . and the cloud of Jehovah was over them by day, when they set forward from the camp."

In our childhood religious ideas must be made concrete rather than abstract. So, here, in the childhood of the nation God made the idea of his presence with and guidance of the nation concrete and objectively realistic in the sacrament of the cloud by day and pillar of fire by night.

Two Appeals to the Soul.

Moses has been criticized for asking for the guiding help of Mobab, his brother-in-law, in view of the clear guidance Jehovah had provided by the cloud and pillar of fire. But the criticism is unreasonable. Because God makes divine resources available does not excuse us from using such human resources as are at our disposal.

Moses' first appeal to Hobab was this: "We are journeying unto the place of which Jehovah said, I will give it you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good; for Jehovah hath spoken goon concerning Israel." It was akin to modern appeals to join the church purely for one's own salvation, apart from the nobler motive of serving God or our fellowmen. And Hobab rejected the appeal saying to Moses: "I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred."

Then Moses bases his appeal upon the higher and nobler basis of unselfish service in a great cause; "And he said, Leave us not, I pray thee; for as much as thou knowest how we are to encamp in the wilderness, and thou shalt be to us instead of eyes." This appeal Hobab accepted, for in Israel's later history we read of Jael, one of the nation's heroes as a descendant of Hobab. So we might get further today if we regarded the church as our force rather than our field; as a workshop rather than a hospital, as an opportunity to invest oneself in this life rather than of saving oneself for the life to come. We must learn to spell service—S-E-R-V-I-C-E and not S-E-R-V-E U-S! Christ teaches us to deny self and follow him.

Small Girl Hit By An Automobile

Escapes Serious Injury As She Is Knocked Down By Automobile

Colonel Hamilton of 117 Willard avenue, was enroute east on Grant street at the west intersection of Green street, Thursday afternoon, when Gladys Watson, a little five year old colored girl, said to be from Youngstown, O., ran across Grant street in front of his machine.

She was struck by the car and knocked to the street. She was immediately picked up and placed in the car of Raymond Anderson and rushed to the Jameson Memorial hospital.

After examination and receiving first aid treatment there; the little girl was able to go to her own home, her injuries being of a minor character, but including a bad cut in the right cheek.

George H. McIntosh of 410 Garfield avenue, was enroute west on East Washington street at Rose avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 3179N going east on East Washington street, pulled out from the rear of a street car and turned to the left, causing McIntosh to hit the other machine. Both machines were damaged to some extent.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

ALFALFA TO BE DISCUSSED

"How to Grow Alfalfa and Sweet Clover" on Lawrence county soils will be explained by E. J. Walter, crop specialist from Pennsylvania State college, at a demonstration meeting on the farm of C. B. Patton, Hickory township, Thursday, September 15, at 1 p. m. eastern standard time.

Alfalfa and sweet clover are two of the best legume crops for improving the soil and alfalfa makes an outstanding ruffage for dairy cattle. Many farmers experience difficulty in getting stands of alfalfa and sweet clover on ground where they have not been grown previously. This is because the soil is not in the proper condition to grow these crops.

Mr. Walter will discuss time and methods of planting, types of soil, soil fertility, harvesting and the place of alfalfa and sweet clover in the rotation. He will also answer questions which farmers attending the meeting may have in regard to these two important legume crops.

PASTURE IMPROVEMENT MEETING

The most economical methods to be used in improving old pasture will be discussed at a demonstration meeting on the farm of C. L. Leonhardt, near Mt. Hope, Slippery Rock township, Friday, September 16, at 9 a. m. eastern standard time.

The results of previous treatment can be seen on this farm. Lime and super phosphate were applied to a pasture two years ago. The results have been a very decided thickening of the sod and the return of Dutch white clover. Two or three times as many head of livestock can be carried on an acre of the treated pasture as on an acre of the untreated pasture.

SEED CORN SELECTION

"How and Why Select Seed Corn From the Field" will be discussed at the farm of Roy Thompson near New Wilmington, Friday, September 16, at 1 p. m. eastern standard time.

E. J. Walter, agronomy specialist from State College, will lead the discussion. Mr. Walter is a graduate of Ohio State university, and for a number of years was in charge of plant breeding work in that state. During recent years Mr. Walter has been in charge of corn improvement work in Pennsylvania.

Growers who are now selecting their seed corn in this way find that it is an aid in controlling root rots and other corn diseases. It also aids in developing and maintaining a uniform type of corn.

SAVE GLADIOLI FROM THRIPS, INSECT PEST

Gladiolus thrips are little insects discovered only a few years ago, and control measures have not been fully completed.

As far as is known, this insect lives only on gladioli. It lives over winter on the corms, and has been reported as doing some damage to newly developing buds or sprouts. Apparently, it is present throughout the state and has caused the destruction of many commercial plantings.

The immature forms are of a bright orange color, while the adults are dark brown or black with white markings on the thorax. They are very small and spend much of their time hidden beneath the sheaths of the leaves so that any spray applied to the plant during the growing season will hit only those individuals exposed at the time. Therefore, usually it is necessary to make several spray applications four or five days apart to reduce the number of insects to the point where the plants are not seriously damaged.

Since the insects winter over, it is advisable to use some means of control before planting. Two methods are available: One of these includes treatment of the corms for one hour in a solution composed of four teaspoonfuls of nicotine sulphate and one-half ounce of soap dissolved in a gallon of water. Fish oil soap is preferred, but laundry soap can be used. The corms should be stirred occasionally while in the solution so that they will become thoroughly wet.

The other method consists of storing the corms in a tight metal container in which about one ounce of naphthalene flakes is used to each cubic foot of space. The corms and flakes would be placed in layers so that the naphthalene will be well distributed among the corms.

Summer treatment of the growing plants also is advisable. As soon as the leaf blades are 6 to 8 inches long they should be watched day by day, and as soon as thrips are noticed or injury is apparent, spraying should begin. The same nicotine sulphate solution used for corm treatment is recommended as a spray. Continue spraying until blooming starts or until the thrips and their injuries disappear.

NEW RASPBERRY PLANTS CAN BE GROWN AT HOME

Farmers of Lawrence county whose raspberry patches are free from disease may grow their own plants for renewal.

Black raspberries and some of the purple cane varieties may be readily propagated at this season. The shoots have grown long and are bent over so that the tips are on the ground. When these tips are covered with soil they will take root, and next spring new plants will be ready to set out.

The operation is simple. A hole two or three inches deep is dug with a hoe or shovel, the tip of the cane is placed in this and the soil is replaced and well firmed. A little loose soil may be thrown over this compacted soil to prevent excessive evaporation.

To be successful, the tips must be buried when they have very small fine leaves, have become slightly thickened or clubbed and have taken on a reddish color. In order to get all of the tips when they are in this stage, the grower must go through the plantation several times, burying the tips of those canes that are properly developed each time.

Early next spring the new plants can be cut loose from the parent canes about eight to ten inches above the ground. They should then have good root systems and be ready to set out.

DRY PLACE IS BEST FOR STORING ONIONS

Onions are one of the easiest crops to store if cured properly, and kept in a dry, cool place. Bulbs with large necks should be used first, because they will not keep in storage.

Harvest the onions as soon as the tops fall down. It is not necessary to break them unless they continue to grow until frost. Dry the bulbs by spreading them under a shed or in a building with openings on each side for ventilation. Slatted or wire bottom trays will economize in space.

Spread the onions out with the tops on until they have become completely dry. The next step will be to cut off the tops and keep the onions in crates, baskets or loosely woven bags.

Fewer Births In First Half Of Year

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—The latest revision and correction of the records in the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, including many "delayed" returns indicates that the number of births for the first half year is lower and the number of deaths higher, than last year, according to figures filed with Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, by Dr. Emlyn Jones.

Figures announced at the end of any month are subject to change as later reports add to the totals. This is more noticeable in the matter of births than it is in deaths. The records of the State Department of Health now show:

Births for first six months, 84,616.

Deaths for first six months, 58,178.

The excess of births over deaths is thus shown to be 26,438. At this rate the yearly excess will not be much above 54,000 for 1932, while the 1931 excess was 68,000. In 1925 it was over 100,000.

Cooperation In Child Health Work Is Urged

School Officials Asked To Work With State In Combatting Disease

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Official communications have gone out from the office for John G. Zeigler, Supervisor School Sanitation, State Department of Health, to all Superintendents of School in Pennsylvania and to all Health Boards in the commonwealth, calling attention to the importance of the closest cooperation between the two authorities in the matter of the pupil's health.

"Teachers and school nurses must carefully observe first signs or symptoms of possible communicable disease, and immediately exclude such pupils from the public schools," says Mr. Ziegler, "and notify the proper health authorities at once of the condition, giving names and places of residence of all suspected cases in accordance with the law."

Mr. Ziegler also calls attention to certain report forms that must be carefully filled out and handed to the local Boards of Health, in case of communicable disease, and requests all Boards to be sure to have a supply of such blank forms on hand to be used in the manner provided by law. Arrangements have been completed with certain publishers of such farms, to carry them in stock, in order that Boards may be supplied promptly when they are needed.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS ARE NOT MUCH USE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—Intelligence tests are beneficial, but when applied to stenographers they don't mean a thing.

Consequently, Dr. Ray J. Worley, of Duquesne University, gives business men and office executives a little advice:

"If you prefer a blonde stenographer, hire her; if you prefer a brunet, grab a brunet."

"Intelligence tests may test speed, concentration, or superficial knowledge, but not stenographic ability," he stated. "Furthermore, a student's success in English is no indication of her probable stenographic success."

CHILLY OR HOT? Y'S PLAYBOARD RIVALS MERCURY

Next to the thermometer the best recorder of hot or cool weather is the long checker table in the Y. M. C. A. main lobby. A glance at it, night or day, will give you an idea of the outside temperature.

When it's hot, like last week, there's not a single soul around; when it's cold, like it has been this week, you'll find the players numerous.

General Secretary R. L. Meermans said that it's seldom the case that the Y table isn't a center of attraction on cool days, providing no other gala celebration is on. And in the summer—well, hardly is there a person who thinks of the checkers then.

Dormitory men of the Y frequent the table for evening diversion, while outsiders come to join them in the play. And to play checkers with them you'd better know your moves.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING AT VOLANT

The Volant Parent-Teacher Association will hold a meeting, September 12, at the school building. This is the first meeting of the new school term.

New President Of Board, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, Will Take Over Office

Board of directors of the New Castle Young Women's Christian Association will have an important regular monthly meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. It will be at this time that Mrs. John E. Elliott, president for the past five years, will turn the duties of the office over to the newly elected president, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser. Mrs. Elliott will be first vice president.

New committee chairmen for the year will be chosen, Tuesday evening, and these in turn will choose their own committee members.

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9.— Three Cleveland, O., youths, and a Baltimore boy, were rescued in Chesapeake Bay by the steamer City of Norfolk off Sharpes' Island. They are James Fisher, Wilford Beck and Anton Kinkoff, all 18, of Cleveland, and Lawrence Van Dusen, 16, of Baltimore.

They had been fishing in the bay when their boat began to collapse. Their distress signals were seen by the steamer's captain, who put off a life boat and rescued them.

Coal Producers Given Setback

Interstate Commerce Commission Ruling Today Is Severe Blow To Operators

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—A severe setback was suffered by western Pennsylvania coal producers today in their demand for equitable freight rates to the Ohio area when the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended until April 9, 1933, the lower rates proposed by the Pittsburgh & West Virginia railroad.

Three railroads, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central, bitterly opposed the Pennsylvania coal producers' demand for lower rates at a hearing before the commission's suspension board in Washington which returned the decision.

Witnesses for the Pittsburgh & West Virginia testified that coal shipment tonnage from western Pennsylvania to the lake cities had been materially reduced by the Wheeling & Lake Erie's 29-cent cut which upset a 10-cent differential of years standing between the Ohio No. 8 and Pittsburgh districts.

Erie Officials Are Desperate In Meeting Payroll

Will Try To Force Payments Of $385,000 And $118,000 From Company

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 9.—City Solicitor Edward M. Murphy today announced he would take action on Monday to collect $385,000 in property improvement liens and $118,000 in back taxes from the Andrews Land company in an effort to convince local and national bankers, from whom Erie is trying to obtain loans, of the city's solvency.

If the land company does not meet the overdue payments, Murphy said, foreclosure action will be taken.

The city solicitor's announcement came as Erie's latest move in its effort to obtain funds to meet a $36,000 payroll due tomorrow. The action was taken as a last resort after the Reconstruction Finance corporation turned down the city's plea for a loan yesterday.

Request Owners To Deed Land To City

City Then Would Improve West Side Of Croton Avenue Hill

Director of Improvements S. W. Treser today stated that City Solicitor Robert White had been authorized to send a communication to the owners of land on the west side of Croton avenue hill, asking them to deed the property to the city.

The sidewalk and fence are in a very bad condition and Treser believes that should the owners, Messrs, Boyles and Lightner, deed the land to the city, the latter would build a stone wall, repair the sidewalk and put in a new fence.

The property is privately owned. The city realizes the conditions that exist in requesting the owners to deed the property to the city, and the latter is taking steps whereby improvements can be made if the request is granted.

On the city maps the owners are designated as George V. Boyles and Henry F. Lightner.

GUNS ARE ROLLED INTO STRIP STEEL

(International News Service)

WEIRTON, W. Va., Sept. 9.—When Uncle Sam's coast artillery guns become obsolete, their usefulness is far from exhausted.

This was shown here when 19 giant cannons were hauled to the plant of the Weirton Steel Company from Lee Hall, Va. The guns, gathered from Eastern seaboard fortresses, were rolled into strip steel for automobile bodies, bridges, skyscrapers, bars, and tin plate.

Each cannon weighed 404,000 pounds and was brought in three freight cars.

Employe Blackens Bosses' Eye, But Still Holds Job

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—Morris Hill, 24, president of the U. S. Slicing Machine Company of Chicago is "regular" with his employes which explains why J. L. McAvoy, Pittsburgh representative of the firm, has no qualms over his job despite Hill's black eye, split lip and a lacerated ear.

Both men were arraigned in central police court before Magistrate T. D. Jones today. Hill expressed his side of the story thus:

"He's my pal. His job is there as long as he wants it."

The two had been at a party. McAvoy had taken Hill to a downtown hotel. An argument started.

Hill was found stretched on the lobby floor, a rapidly swelling "mouse" over his eye, when police came on the run.

Both men were discharged.

Neshannock Twp. Pupils Stay Home

Parents Unable To Pay Tuition Themselves So Students Are Idle

Out in Neshannock township there are few high school students attending school these days, because the township school board is as yet unable to borrow money.

Although the present board, which is endeavoring to wipe out some mistakes which have been made in the past, is willing to sell $12,000 worth of bonds, practically gilt-edged, at five and one-half per cent, no one will buy them. This would wipe out their past indebtedness and give them a new start.

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling stated this morning that the township has an assessed valuation of close to a million and a half dollars in property, and the present bonds outstanding amount to but $10,000, making the bonded indebtedness within the two per cent limit, they cannot dispose of them.

Down in Wampum, where bonds were sold this summer to finance a new school building, the issue was subscribed for at four and one-half per cent within an hour.

Only those pupils whose parents can afford to pay tuition out of their own pockets and take a chance on collecting later from the school board, are attending high schools, Mr. Syling stated.

Five Gas Tax Cases In Court

Among the cases listed for trial in the September term of court will be five gasoline cases in which defendants are charged with having defrauded the state out of gasoline tax due. The cases arise out of practices said to have existed when the dealer paid the tax. As the arrangement now stands the tax on gasoline is paid at source by the company producing the gasoline.

No Test Case Yet On Whiffleboard Order In County

No test case has yet been made out against an operator of a whiffle board, but it is understood there is a likelihood that an arrest will be made some time today. Unless the case is started before Saturday afternoon there is no chance of getting it before the September grand jury, which meets next Monday.

If a test arrest is made, the balance of the whiffle board operators in the city will likely abide by the decision of the courts in the matter. As it stands now nobody knows whether or not the games are legal, and some of the operators have paid a state tax for the privilege of operating them.

PRINCIPAL OF EARLIER DAYS TO BE PRESENT

John G. Nothdurft Will Tell Some Interesting Happenings Of Fifty Years Ago

One of the outstanding features of the second annual reunion of the Lincoln school boys and girls of 1880-1900 and their teachers and principals this evening, will be the presence of John G. Nothdurft, well known banker of this city, who was the second principal of Lincoln school, and who as a young man of twenty-one years of age, assumed charge of the school, just fifty years ago this term.

Mr. Nothdurft has some interesting anecdotes of those early days of the school, which he plans to tell and it will be one of the things that the former students of this school will not want to miss.

This is going to be a real old-fashioned reunion tonight and the program will be largely informal, with everybody having an opportunity of being seen and heard.

The affair gets under way at seven o'clock and there will be many out of town residents, who were formerly students of the school, present and anxious for the opportunity of meeting their former schoolmates and teachers.

Parents of boys and girls of 1880-1900 who attended Lincoln school between those years, who may be living, will be welcomed as special guests of the occasion. A feature of the guest list is the fact that no person less than forty years of age will be eligible to attend.

VanKirk pleaded guilty to the charge and in default of bail was held for the September grand jury.

SEPTEMBER COURT WILL BE LIGHT

September term of criminal court promises to be a rather light affair, judging from the number of indictments that will be presented to the grand jury on Monday morning.

Thus far there are less than 80 indictments ready for presentation. Of these there will probably be a few "not a true bill" returned. Of the true bills found there will be a number of pleas so that the actual number of cases to be tried will probably run less than fifty.

Connecticut Farmer-Actors Stage Broadway Shows In Barn

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW MILFORD, Conn., Sept. 9.—At last an answer to the question "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm, After They've Seen Broadway?" has been answered by a small but earnest group of Connecticut farmers who between plowing, milking and sawing wood here found time to establish a theatre, import Broadway shows and attract Broadway figures.

It started a few years back when Ted Ohmer who owns and operates the Western View Farm at New Milford in a talk with Cleon Throckmorton, who is remembered for the noble experiment he performed in Hoboken, decided that farming was drab and uninteresting but that it could be made attractive. Their aim was "sophisticated farming" and one bright day the neighbors were surprised to see Ohmer moving the hay out of his enormous barn and moving electrical apparatus into it.

It wasn't long before the barn was transformed into a theatre, modern in its equipment and perfect in its lighting and acoustics. Now it is known as the Hayburn Theatre and it has become a model for all Little Theatre movements.

At first the actors were amateurs gathered from neighboring farms but later such Broadway luminaries as Basil Sydney, Mary Ellis, Dennis King, and Sidney Howard became weekly visitors. They wrote and acted in plays "just for the fun of it."

Guests at the Western View Farm became theatre-conscious and many a vacationist suddenly became afflicted with the urge to ruin white paper and to tread the boards.

Virgil Geddes, whose play "The Earth Between" caused such a sensation in New York a few years back and resulted in a war between the New York critics and St. John Ervine, at that time a guest critic for the New York World, heard of the Haybarn-Theatre and was persuaded to allow some of his plays to be produced. It is not a commercial proposition. The writers, actors, stage, hands and electricians all take part "just for the fun of it."

Young authors who have, or think they have, things to say ask Ohmer for the use of his barn. Ohmer between superintending the milking of his cows and the pruning of his apple trees always says "Yes but don't forget to turn the lights out when you are through."

There is always an audience, for the surrounding counties have heard of the Haybarn theatre and farmers, vacationists and passing pedestrians fill the seats in the country quaintest theatre in the country whenever there is a play produced.

This month Ohmer and Geddes have become ambitious. Four plays will be produced at the theatre. "In The Tradition" by Geddes will be one and "Key Largo" by Katherine Clugston, will be another.

Ohmer likes to produce plays which feature servants because he can always find real actors and actresses for those parts. He merely sticks his head into his kitchen window and calls for a cook, a maid or a chauffeur as the case may be. Sophisticated farming has come to stay at Western View Farm and the sight of a farmer guiding a plow with one hand, while holding the script of a play with the other may soon become commonplace in Connecticut.

Police Fraternity Ban Seen Certain

Council Committee Unanimously Approves Bill Prohibiting It

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9— City Council yesterday got on its way legislation to prevent police and firemen from joining the Fraternal Order of Police.

By unanimous vote the Public Safety Committee approved an ordinance introduced by Councilman Edward A. Kelly, prohibiting employees of the Safety Department "from being members of, or hereafter joining any organization, association or society, membership in which is confined to employees and officials of the Department of Public Safety."

Exceptions are made by the bill for pension and welfare organizations duly recognized in the Department and the Lambskin Club and the League of the Sacred Heart.

Councilman Kelly made the principal attack on the fraternal order which previously had been opposed by Director of Public Safety Dodge.

"This organization," he said, "would tend to make the police active in politics, whereas the Legislature gave us a city charter in 1919 to take them out of politics.

"The Republican organization does not want political control of the police force. In Philadelphia there is no longer the use of police clubs on election days to compel citizens to cast their ballots for candidates backed by some dominant or contending political faction.

"This fraternal organization would not make the policemen courageous for they are that now, but it would make them bold, so as to encourage them to protect members of the force who are subject to charges.

"This movement is fostered here by strangers who are professional organizers and whose only livelihood is in organizing policemen and firemen."

Councilman Morris Apt said that most policemen are opposed to the order, but are "afraid they might be coerced into joining it."

HARD water means hard work. It's the hardness . . . the mineral salts . . . in hard water that wastes soap, because the soap cannot dissolve. Stop this waste! Add a teaspoon or two of Climalene to your washing water. That's all.

How It Works

Climalene cuts grease and softens the water instantly. Thus, only ¼ the soap is needed when you use Climalene. Then, it gently dissolves food stains, grease and dirt on dishes and in clothes. Thus you do your work in ½ the time or less.

It takes away that grease scum that is so annoying in dishwater. Colored clothes come from the wash far cleaner and fresher without "fade" or "streaks", white clothes—whiter than ever before. It leaves the hands soft and smooth.

Get Climalene today from your grocer. Use it wherever you use water for cleaning, in the kitchen, laundry and bathroom. He has it in the bright, shiny, blue box, 12 ounces for 10c or 2 pounds for 25c. The Climalene Co., Canton, Ohio.

10c now buys Bowlene . . . Makes closet bowls sparkling white.

BERN'S WOMEN LOVERS MAY FACE EACH OTHER

Two May Attend Bern's Funeral

Jean Harlow's Mate Committed Suicide According To Coroner's Jury

PROBE FAILS TO SOLVE MYSTERY

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9—Jean Harlow, beautiful platinum blonde screen actress, and Dorothy Millette, two women who loved Paul Bern during his life may come face to face today for the first time at his funeral.

This contingency, admittedly more than a possibility, arose when it became known that Miss Millette, the "phantom mate" of the motion picture producer, who emerged from his past following his suicide, is on the Pacific coast.

She was at a San Francisco hotel, investigators learned, the day Bern sent a bullet crashing through his brain, disappearing after news of his act had been published.

That she might come to the last rites in his honor was the belief of friends of the dead man.

Expect Miss Harlow at Funeral

Recovering slightly from the state of collapse in which she has been since informed of the suicide of her husband of two months, Miss Harlow was expected to be able to attend the private funeral services planned for Bern today.

The presence of Miss Millette in San Francisco was established through the fact that a check had been sent her there from Bern's funds only a few days before his death.

Her presence in California, the fact that she probably had been in communication with Bern and the declaration that her existence was entirely unknown to Miss Harlow, brought to the fore two additional possibilities.

Suggests Motive

The first was a definite motive for the suicide of the kindly little "father confessor," of Hollywood. Investigators said that it might well have been posible that Bern, feeling he must tell Miss Harlow of this episode of his past, dreaded it to such an extent that he finally ended his life as a "way out." This they said would explain the cryptic note in which he mentioned having "wronged' his beautiful actress wife.

The second was a likelihood that a contest may develop for his estate. It was definitely known that two wills exist—the first made in 1920 naming the first woman in his life. Dorothy Millette, and the second made only a few weeks ago leaving his property to Miss Harlow.

Common Law Marriage

The second will would of course take precedence over the other unless Dorothy Millette could establish a legal status as the wife of the late producer. Such a status it was said by legal authorities might be established if it could be proved that she and Bern had lived together as man and wife in Canada, as reported, even if no actual marriage was on record. Common law mariages are recognized there under certain circumstances, attorneys said.

The coroner's jury of doctors and laymen found Bern a suicide but was unable to fix a motive for his act which left that phase of the case as baffling a mystery as ever.

The only testimony adduced at the coroner's investigation was the rather guarded expression of belief on the part of an autopsy surgeon that there existed a physical condition which might have tended to produce nervousness and melancholia on the part of Bern in view of his recent marriage. The autopsy surgeon made plain Bern suffered from no disease and that he was advancing no theory as to the cause of the suicide.

CADDIES ON STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES

(International News Service)

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9—Golfers here face a major crisis.

The caddies of the Philipsburg Country Club, fifty strong, are on strike for higher wages.

Picketing of the links has been established by the strikers and stones flew for a time when "strike-breakers" were rushed in from other communities to caddy for the women's golf tournament.

A demand for a minimum wage scale of seventy five cents for the day's work, instead of the usual twenty cents a round has been made by the caddies.

The caretaker of the club stated it had been the intention of the tourney players to fund the difference by means of tips. He is of the opinion the strikers can be successfully "locked out."

Authority Is Given To Abate Delinquent Tax Penalties Locally

Since the signing of the Nothnagle Bill by Governor Gifford Pinchot, the question has been asked by a number of citizens in New Castle and Lawrence County as to whether the provisions of it would be made available here. The bill permits any county, city, boro, township, or school district, except cities of the first class (Philadelphia) to abate in whole or in part, penalties added to delinquent taxes.

The essence of the bill is contained in the following paragraph:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby imposed by the authority of the same, That all tax penalties imposed by existing laws on county, city, borough, town, township, school district and poor district taxes, due and payable to such local political subdivisions where such taxes are paid before the first day of December 1932, except in counties and cities of the first class, may be abated in whole or in part by the political subdivision imposing the tax."

Optional With Authorities

The bill is entirely optional with city council, school board and the county commissioners. If they wish to abate all the penalty they can, or if they wish to abate a part of it they can. Thus far nothing has been done to make any abatements whatever.

There is no uniform system of adding penalties upon taxes in Lawrence county, city, school and county have a different penalty with the school tax carrying the most severe penalty. The first penalty added for failure to pay is five per cent, following the filing of the tax with the county commissioners. January 1 of the next year another 2½ per cent goes on. On May 1 of the year following the filing six per cent legal interest goes on and to all of this is the five per cent for the collection. School taxes remaining unpaid for a year carry approximately 14 per cent penalty.

County taxes that are filed carry six per cent legal interest and five per cent for collection and city taxes carry one per cent per month penalty until they are either paid or the property sold. The reason for the bill's being passed and signed was to relieve tax payers from heavy penalties during this time of economic stress.

Some counties are already utilizing the provisions of the law it is said, and the question has been raised here as to the possibilities of some relief given along this line.

City's Missionaries Order Car For Service In Field

Two New Castle missionary women who will resume their gospel labors in French West Africa in October expect to take back with them something that promises to stir deep curiosity among the natives of that land—a flashy, new automobile.

The car, ordered and ready for shipment to the far-off land, will serve the missionaries in their Christian toil at the missionary station at Faranah, back in the heart of the French West Africa interior.

Miss Sallie Botham and Miss Cecelia Lewis, representing the local Christian Missionary Alliance congregation, are the two who will drive it. They're ready to go back after lengthy furloughs here.

"We're days and days apart from different missionary fields," explained Miss Botham, "and the car there is bound to play an important part." A popular mode for traveling there now is by bicycle.

The French West African roads are not exactly perfect for automobile driving, but cars are driven over them. Miss Botham said one or two cars are in operation there now. The natives seldom see them.

When the two workerer sail from New York on September 29th a 31-day trip to Conaky, on the French West African coast, lies before them. Then two days more will be spent traveling into the interior station where they serve.

Miss Botham and Miss Lewis reside on Marshall avenue.

Pinchot Threatens To Take His Plea Before President

Governor Of Pennsylvania Seeks To Hurry Up R. F. C. In Regard To State Loan

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—On the heels of Governor Pinchot's complaint to Chairman Atlee Pomerene of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that delay in acting on Pennsylvania's application for a $45,000,000 relief fund was "cruel and unnecessary", and his threat to appeal directly to the President, officials of the corporation today placed the blame for the difficulty on Pinchot and his official family.

Pinchot was originally turned down by the R. F. C. on his loan application made July 18, on the ground that the state had not exhausted its own means of relieving distress. Subsequently the state legislature adopted a sales tax and the loan application was renewed.

R. F. C. officials said today that the Pennsylvania application will receive "immediate attention when certain supplemental information, which has been promised by Pennsylvania officials, is received."

It was added that the corporation is disposed to act with the greatest promptness on this, the Pennsylvania application, and other applications, when all necessary data is provided by the applicants.

NEW METHOD OF JUDGING POULTRY

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 9.—A new method of judging poultry was used recently at a show in Meadville, H. H. Kauffman, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, reports.

Cockerels exhibited at the show were classified according to varieties and weights and then were judged by a poultry buyer from the market viewpoint. There is a good economical reason for this type of judging, Kauffman says, because 98 per cent of the cockerels produced are sold for meat.

Pullets exhibited at the show were classified according to weight, eight weeks old to laying age. Kauffman declares that this also is practicable because poultrymen buy pullets for their flocks between these ages.

Statesman and Poultry Farmer

Having earned, during his long career in British public life, the title of the "Welsh Wizard," by virtue of his political acumen, David Lloyd George, Britain's war-time Premier, is shown trying out his wizardry on the chickens, the raising of which is his hobby. The former Premier maintains a farm outside London, where he spends all the time he can spare from his duties as leader of the Liberal Party.

"Howdy" Cards Take Place Of Lectures

State Police Show Courtesy To Visiting Motorists On Road

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—Pennsylvania's Highway Patrolmen, trained to be courteous on every occasion, have been instructed to accord an extra measure of consideration to motorists from other states who are detected in minor violations of the Motor Code.

Patrolmen have been furnished with small printed cards to hand motorists guilty of minor infractions of the code. The card carries the salutation—"Howdy Stranger" followed by a line which says "We are glad to have you visit us and hope you enjoy your trip." The card also asks the motorists to cooperate in making the highways safe by observing the rules which govern operation of motor vehicles in Pennsylvania.

A number of organizations, headed by the State Chamber of Commerce, have been waging campaigns to attract motorists from other states to Pennsylvania. The many thousands of cars which visit Pennsylvania from every state in the union proves the campaign to have been a success.

Officers of the Highway Patrol are anxious that the organization do nothing which will make visits unpleasant for guests from other states.

ENGLISH DUTY ON APPLES IS HIGH

(International News Service)

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 9.—Apple growers in the great Hancock, Md., fruit belt have word of an English duty of 85 cents per hundredweight on their product. England last year received 5,000,000 barrels of apples from this section of Maryland and Virginia.

"With this high duty, it will be possible to ship only the best grades which command the higher prices," said J. Andrew Cohill, one of the largest growers.

The problem now, it was pointed out, is to develop new markets for second grade fruit and look to the canning plants and cider mills.

"Safety Wheel" Is Designed To Eliminate The Danger Of Accidents

(International News Service)

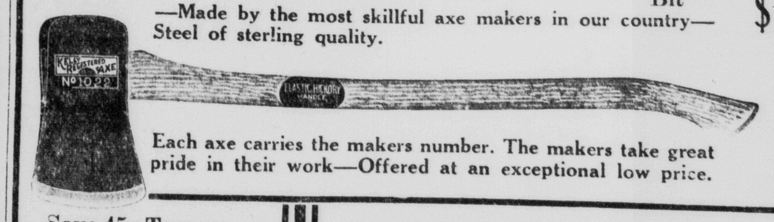

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—That fear of disaster through accident, hereditary to the vast majority of autoists, will disturb the minds of drivers no longer if, and when, an invention perfected, but not yet patented, by P. E. and C. O. Fisher, brothers, is accepted by the automotive industry.

Logically styled a "safety wheel," the invention is an auxiliary wheel, resembling a solid-tired flange and would be attached to the revolving brake drum of the regular models of motor vehicles to receive the weight of the car in emergencies.

Its use would reduce blowout dangers in addition to eliminating extra labor entailed by working with a jack.

Whereas the driver must now raise the damaged wheel with a jack, the auxiliary wheel could be driven upon a block of wood or other object to lift the desired part above ground level for the purpose of making repairs.

Registration For Canning To Be Continued

Must Have Larger Number Of People Interested To Go Ahead With Project

BELIEVE MANY DID NOT UNDERSTAND

Because of the fact that the registration for the canning project to be undertaken on September 21, under the auspices of the Mayor's Relief committee and the Garden club, was extremely light, the registration will continue all through next week at the Red Cross office.

A representative of the Garden club will be stationed at the Red Cross office every afternoon between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock, where people desiring to participate may register.

It is believed that a number of people felt that because they were already listed with the Mayor's Relief committee for aid, that it was not necessary for them to register again, but this is not the case, Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, president of the Garden club stated today.

The canning project is entirely separate from any other relief project now under way, and those who expect to participate and benefit, must register as they will not be admitted to the buildings where the canning is going on without a ticket.

The canning will start on Wednesday, September 21, in the George Washington, Ben Franklin, and Mahoningtown school buildings.

He would have been 71 years old Sunday.

The third generation is at the head of the business today, and the fourth generation is actively engaged in the business.

Forest Fires Fail To Kill Rattlers

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.— The prevalent opinion in many parts of the country that forest fires reduce the number of snakes particularly rattlers, is not borne out by the experience of District Forester Paul Mulford of the Tioga State Forest District, with headquarters at Wellsboro.

Mulford reports that two men and a woman killed 126 rattlesnakes in one day on an area in Bradford county near Satterlee Run on a tract of timber land that burned over last year.

Rangers in charge of State Forest road and trail building crews in the north tier counties report that the men often average one rattler a day. A State Forest road worker in Tioga county, recently killed one which, although only eighteen inches long, had seven rattlers and a button.

"Judging from their small size this year" said Mulford, "the rattlers are apparently feeling the depression also."

WILL ENTER PLEAS SATURDAY MORNING

Indications are that the grand jury, which convenes on next Monday, will not have a very large list of cases.

Italy Sets Pace With New Luxury Liners

Gyroscope stabilizer with flywheel weighing 100 tons.

Italy is causing the shipping world to sit up. When the new deluxe liner Rex, largest vessel built since the World war, arrives at New York on October 4 she will have made it in the fastest time ever logged from Mediterranean ports. For this 880-foot, 54,000-ton craft, easily tops her required speed of 27 knots an hour. A month or so afterwards, her sister-ship, the 48,000-ton Conte di Savoia, will arrive. The Conte di Savoia, besides her general luxury and speed, will have two added distinctions. She will have in her hold, an American-built gyro stabilizer which will reduce rolling to a minimum, and she will have the largest sports deck space on any ship afloat. Italy already has the largest liners to the Mediterranean. The new vessels will be in addition.

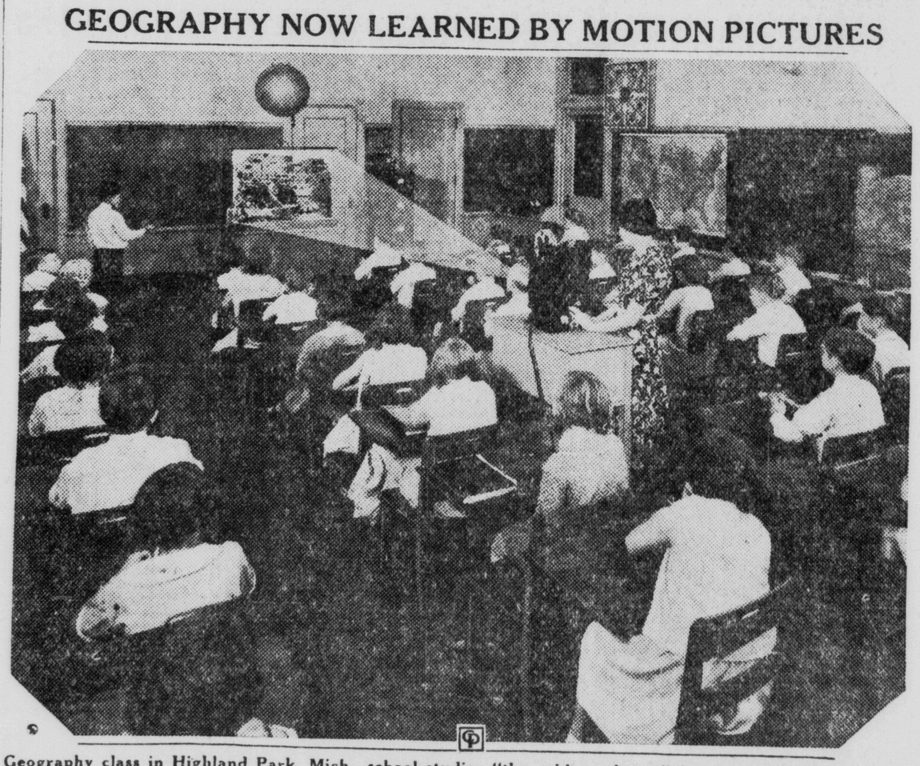

ROCK GARDENS AND THEIR PLACE IN LANDSCAPING

Because of the widespread popularity of the rock garden, the question arises as to whether it is a passing fad or a form of garden that has come to stay. The type of rock garden which has no natural place in the design will disappear, but the kind that is appropriate to the garden setting will remain. Rock gardening is an art. Pictured are two successful rock gardens, left, above, one serving as a retaining wall and as a background for an informal pool. Mass effects in the planting are most effective; right, below, an artificial rock garden which has captured the natural effect; part of the rockery in design. The plan at left shows the attractive layout of house, lawn and rockery. These photographs are supplied to Central Press by the Good Housekeeping studio of architecture and furnishings, Helen Koues, director, and its staff of architects, Dwight James Baum, A. I. A., consultant architect, and associate architects, Henry Ives Cobb, Jr., A. I. A., New York; Myron Hunt, F. A. I. A., Los Angeles; C. Herrick Hammond, F. A. I. A., Chicago.

Fruits For Exhibit Should Be Picked Ahead

Many valuable suggestions are contained in the weekly farm calendar issued by the School of Agriculture, Pennsylvania State College.

Select Fruit Exhibits—Apples for exhibit should be selected while the fruit still is on the trees. From the time of picking until the fruit is finally arranged in the exhibit, it should be handled as carefully as eggs. Apples of good average size for the variety are better than very large or small fruits.

Clean Soiled Eggs—Despite all efforts to produce clean eggs, generally there will be a few soiled ones. To clean these, use a knife or a coarse steel wool to remove the foreign material stuck to the shell, and then wipe the soiled spot with a damp cloth. Do not wash soiled eggs because the protective coating on the shell will be dissolves and in its absence the contents of the egg will evaporate more rapidly.

Eat Plenty of Tomatoes—As a haelth-promoting vegetable, the tomato has no equal. Unlike most vegetables, the tomato does not lose its vitamins when cooked. Tomato juice is equal to orange juice in food value and it is less expensive. Tomatoes are always good for the health, whether eaten cooked or raw.

Keep Berries Separate—Recommended control practices call for separation of red and black raspberry plants by 500 to 1000 feet, beside roguing the plants, because when green mosaic is transmitted from the red to the black raspberries it kills the latter.

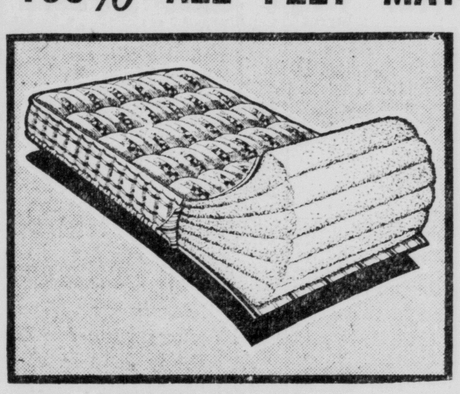

Transplant Iris—Varities of iris which have remained in the garden for three years can be separated and transplanted now. All diseased or insect infested rhizomes should be removed and strong sturdy plants used. The tops of the iris should be removed to within three or four inches of the crown of the rhizome.

Save Time in Plowing—Large, rectangular fields are the cheapest to plow, for less time is lost on the turns and in plowing the headlands.

Sleeping Sickness Baffles Physicians

Pittsburgh Man Still Clings To Hope Of Having His Sister Cured

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9—"There must be someone, somewhere—"

Clinging to this last bit of hope, a Pittsburgh man, broken by sorrow, revealed to the world the plight of his sister—affected by the strange malady known as sleping sickness.

The disease balks all attempts at solution. Neither its cause nor cure is known. A feeling of impending tragedy lingers with the persons afflicted.

This Pittsburgher, who wishes to conceal his identity for reasons of his own, has sought the aid of medical circles and institutions throughout the world for eleven years in his dogged determination to effect a cure for his unfortunate sister.

But his ceaseless efforts to cure this disease, known as sleeping sickness to the public and encephalitis to scientists have all been in vain

Nevertheless, he continues to hold to hope by saying: "I would like to send an S. O. S. to the world for my sister and other unfortunates. There must be someone, somewhere—"

Between 50 and 100 chronic cases of the malady exist here. First reported in France in 1918, the disease became pandemic in 1920 and was reported to have appeared in widely scattered European countries.

Several doctors are of the opinion that the malady appears in conjunction with the disease influenza. This disease, however, is in no way related to the form of sleeping sickness of Africa which is characteristic by a coma.

Coats varying from five-eighths to three-quarters in length are finding favor.

City Exonerates Tax On Building

Being Used By Rescue Mission; Takes Action In Flinner's Case

Council met in the City building today. Important legislative action was lacking. Solicitor White was authorized to make a settlement with Harry Flinner, Hillcrest avenue, relative to a sidewalk lien. He will pay $50.00 and the city will strike off the costs and interest.

Samuel Fowler told council he owned a building at 1219 South Mill street. He said he had paid $50 of the tax due this year but had been unable to pay the balance.

Fowler further said the building is used by the Rescue Mission as a distributing house and that the mission is unable to pay rent.

He said if the taxes amount to about $139 and that if the taxes were exonerated this year he would not charge rent this year to the mission.

Council instructed Fowler the city had no control over the school tax but that the city would exonerate the balance of city tax.

Man Badly Hurt After Argument

Restaurant Man Is Knocked Down—Assailant Held By Police

John Stavros, of the Walford Restaurant, Public Square, is in the Jameson Memorial Hospital, in an unconscious and critical condition, as a result of injuries sustained shortly before midnight Thursday in front of his place of business, when struck by Pete Kakovros and knocked to the sidewalk, his head striking the sidewalk with great force and apparently causing his present condition.

Kakovros is being held by the police pending the outcome of the condition of Stavros, under a technical charge of suspicion. His arrest occurred shortly after midnight.

Little has been learned as to the cause of the trouble between the two men, other than that which Kakovros made in a statement to the police that Stavros called him vile names and was in the act of striking him, when he struck the blow that caused the injury to Stavros. While there were spectators to the incident, the discussion between the men was all in Greek.

As far as can be determined, Stavros was standing in the vicinity when Kakovros came along. They started to argue in the Greek language and Sam Fillipo, an employe of the restaurant attempted to prevent the fight.

According to the police records, Kakovros struck Stavros as the latter was advancing on him and knocked him back. Recovering, Stavros started for Kakovros again and a second blow was struck by Kakovros, which knocked Stavros to the sidewalk, where his head struck the pavement with great force.

The police were called and on their arrival Kakovros was attempting to bring Stavros to consciouness with ice and water. Stavros was rushed to the hospital and Kakovros was taken to the city jail.

Charges Are Preferred Against Her Alleged Assailant By Police Chief

After a white woman, who went to a North Shenango street residence, which was supposed to be unoccupied last evening, reported to the police that she had been the victim of an assault on the part of one of the men of the group of "white liners" who apparently had taken over the house, the police visited the place and arrested the entire group consisting of six men.

Among the number was one whom the woman identified as the man, who had attempted to assault her in the house, she claims. He gave the name of John Dugan and his place of residence as Pittsburgh.

Market Rallies Sharply Today

Rails Strong Due To Car Loading Report Due Tomorrow, Rapid Price Changes

U. S. STEEL IS UP TWO POINTS

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—The stock market rallied sharply today after an erratic forenoon.

Rapid price changes marked the first two hours with trading at a fast pace through below yesterday's heavy volume. The market went into the early afternoon with prices about even with last night's close after heavy selling in the second hour sent leaders down 1 to 2 points.

The rails were the backbone of the recovery and their strength stimulated the rest of the list. Sentiment was aided further by a rebound of $1 a bale in cotton. It was the $5 a bale break in cotton which brought about yesterday's sinking spell.

Rails Strong

Strength in the rails was influenced by estimates of a sharp gain in tomorrow's loadings report. N. Y. Central and Southern Pacific were leaders in activity. Gains ran from 1 to 3 points with Atchinson setting a fast pace.

U. S. Steel was under pressure all during the forenoon but continued to show support on the way down. This led to considerable short covering, prompted by reports of a spectacular gain in tomorrow's unfilled toanage report. And the stock rallied more than 2 points from its low.

American Can and American Telephone were strong leaders. Johns Manville was an outstanding specialty and hit a new high.

'Bargain Week' Ends In Springfield Court

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD,. Mo.,. Sept.. 9.—"Bargain week" is over for petty law violators here.

Noting a $1,000-slump in the city revenue for the month of July, Judge M. A. Dodd left his sick bed to find if the police court was doing its bit to finance the city.

He discovered much of the shortage was the result of cut rates inaugurated by W. A. Umbarger, whom Judge Dood had designated to fill in during his absence.

Among the reductions he found petty traffic violators discharged (old scale $1.50); drunk, $3.15 (old scale $9.15 up); speeding $1.15 (old scale $18.15 up.)

Judge Dodd immediately appointed a new substitute.

SOUND DEVISES TO BE UNDER A BAN

YORK, Pa., Sept. 9.—After October 1, this city will be a more quiet place in which to live.

City council has passed an ordinance banning sound devices which would have been placed on many trucks and used by stores for advertising purposes. Union School Roll Given By Classes; High School Large

Today's Report Same As Opening Day's; New Teachers On Duty

A second check of Union township's school enrollment, figuring the eight grade school divisions and the high school unit as well, today showed that 1,067 boys and girls were in attendance at classes. The opening day report was just the same.

While the Union high school itself has 485 students enrolled, the grade departments have registered a total of 582. Scotland Public school, held in the same building as the high school, is the largest among the lower schools.

Supervising Principal Roy F. Conway's tally for the different township schools today follows:

Union high school, 485 attending—Grade 7-1, 41; 7-2, 46; 8-1, 41; 8-2, 36; 9-1, 45; 9-2, 42; 9-3, 31; 10-1, 37; 10-2, 40; 11-1, 38; 11-2, 34; 12-1, 31, and 12-2, 23.

White grade school, 70; Linden Grove, 30; Harbor, 37; Fairview, 28; Washington, 30; Sunny Ave. 187; Scotland Lane, 42; Scotland Public, 158. White has the largest attendance of the scattered smaller schools.

A total of 54 seniors are attending the Union's classes.

Mahoning township, office figures show, is contributing a large delegation to the Union township classes this term. A special bus transports them and returns them each day.

While the usual opening routine has the full share of the faculty members' time since school commenced, Principal Conway said today that plans are set for the first chapel assembly of students late next week.

New teachers in the grades include Miss Margaret Cheers, assigned to Scotland Lane, Miss Elizabeth Kanagy, at Linden Grove; in the high school Miss Anna Rice and Donald Hoffmaster are new.

But one regular teacher, Miss Verna Green, sixth grade, was off duty today. An appendicitis operation confines her. Miss Gladys Brest is her substitute.

EVERY WOMAN
faces this question

"How do I look to other people?" If you have a lovely skin, attractive eyes, and plenty of enthusiasm, you need not worry.

So many women, though, risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This cereal provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B which tones the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Special cooking processes make it finer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Surely this is safer than abusing the system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

REORGANIZATION BEING SPEEDED

Confirmation Of Sale Of Radiator Plants Speeds Plans For Future

With the approval of the sale of the properties of the National Radiator Corporation by Judge R. M. Gibson in the United States District Court, plans for reorganization are speeded. John H. Waters, president of the National Radiator Corporation and a member of the purchasing committee has announced the concern will continue under the same name and management. With him are associated Rudolph B. Flershem of Buffalo, Frank B. Kahn, of Baltimore, and Charles O. Cornell, of New York.

The company's main offices are in Johnstown, Pa., with a large plant here, and other plants in Johnstown, Trenton, Chicago, Tonowanda and Framingham, Mass. The corporation went into a receivership last fall to conserve assets and facilitate reorganization. This reorganization is now under way.

Vendors Must Not Halt Road Traffic

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Vendors who operate along highways must not stop traffic, nor impede the progress of vehicles, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation warned today in calling attention to numerous violations of that section of the motor code which prohibits such practice. Complaints from motorists that accidents have been caused by individuals getting onto the travelable portion of main roads soliciting sales led the federation to act.

"We have no objection to the legitimate sale of goods along any highway, and many unemployed are utilizing this way of making a living, but we are opposed to solicitation that constitutes a traffic menace such as has been reported from several parts of the state,' said S. Edward Gable, president of the federation.

Reserves Make Good Showing

Coach Bridenbaugh Fortunate In Having Good Reserve Strength

NEW MEN WILL GET ATTENTION

Every good football team is dependent upon the reserve strength, or material. New Castle high seems blessed with a lot of fine looking subs this year who will give the varsity boys the scrimmage needed to condition them for a hard campaign.

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh is well pleased with the 1932 squad. His varsity lineup to date has the weight and speed. The reserves are up to snuff.

Among the new men who look very promising and who will likely find themselves in the regular lineup before the season is very many weeks old are Milton Butts, Freddy Lane and Ridley, all backfield candidates, and Humphries, Pascarella and "Gob" Palkovich, all linemen.

The squad went through a long signal drill Thursday afternoon and wound up with a light scrimmage, using several new tricky plays that Coach Bridenbaugh conceived during the long summer months.

Tommy Jones, a lineman of last year and also used part-time in the backfield, reported to the squad on Thursday and was given a uniform.

Light Workout.

Having scrimmaged heavily while out at camp, the team will not indulge in any strenuous workouts until after the opening game with Union high next Friday night.

Coach Bridenbaugh is more concerned with the fundamental side of the game, he wants the boys to know the plays and all of the intricate rules and regulations.

Assistant Coaches William "Bill" Klee and George "Gig" Thomas are proving invaluable in helping "Bridy" put the boys through their early paces. The work of the assistant coaches is to see that the players have the proper ankle bandages and wraps and to see that the players' needs are attended to, as well as to aid in coaching.

Faculty Manager Gardner is busily engaged in the details relative to the opening game.

Three Teams Have Chance For Honor

Should Mahoning beat Hillsville in their Twilight league series, the third game of which occurs today and Scarazzo beat Mahoning the latter will hold the county baseball championship. If Mahoning does not win the Twilight flag and Hillsville does the Scarazzo-Mahoning series will not decide the county championship team and a series with Hillsville may be the result.

Scarazzo To Play Mahoning

First Of Seven Game Series Saturday At Cents' Field

MILLER ADDED TO MAHONING'S STAFF

Having captured the championship of the Lawrence County Baseball league, Scarazzo is resting until Saturday when they will tackle Mahoning of the Twilight circuit in the first of a seven game series. The game will be played at Centennial field. A big crowd is expected to witness the inaugural of the clashes.

Manager Alec Black today reported all his hurlers are in fine shape and the pitching problem will not bother him. Manager Nick Cangey, however, is situated differently and will depend mostly upon Steve Hutnic or Lefty Miller.

Steve has been the main standby of Manager Nick during the Twilight season while Miller pitched for Volant and stood out prominently. He ranks 'Even Stephen' with Hutnic and Cangey believes they will be able to furnish Scarazzo plenty of opposition.

Series Game To Be Played Today

Mahoning And Hillsville Will Play Third Game Of Series At Centennial Field

The third game of the series between Mahoning A. A. and Hillsville will be played this evening at 5:30 o'clock at Centennial field. Each team has won a game. The game tonight should be a hotly contested one. Thomas will likely be the Hillsville pitcher, with Hutnic on the mound for the Mahonings.

St. Andrews Tops Engineering Team

St. Andrews church mushball team topped the Pennsylvania Engineering Works team 6 to 2 in a well played game at Gaston park last evening. Tonight the St. Andrews team closes its home season by playing the West Side Merchants at 6:30 o'clock at Gaston park.

Home runs last evening were hit by Rowe, Jones and Bender. Small hurled a fine game, allowing the Engineers but six hits. Withers pitched a fine game for the Engineering Works, allowing only 10 hits.

Baer And McFate Doubles Champs

Wingerd And Carroll Play For Senior Singles Title Today, Tourney Ends Today

SAMMY PEZZONE MIDGET CHAMPION

Joe McFate and Harold Baer are the doubles champions of New Castle for 1932, having met and defeated Lowell H. Wingerd and Regis "Red" McAuley, last evening at Clenmore courts, after the hardest fought five-game set in the tourney to date. Wingerd and McAuley were the defending champions. The results were 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. The match ended just as it was getting dark. Quite a fair sized crowd witnessed the match.

Sammy Pezzone is again the Midget champion, having disposed of Jack Bechtol in a two straight sets 6-0, 6-3. Pezzone was the 1931 champion. Pezzone played a dazzling game to win.

This afternoon at 4:15 o'clock at the Clenmore courts Tommy Jones, will play Lester "Bus" Reiber for the Junior singles title. Jones is the favorite to win, as he was one of the runnersup last year. Reiber is playing a fine brand of tennis and may unset the dope.

Wingerd-Carroll

Following the Junior title match, Lowell H. Wingerd, the 1931 singles champion will defend his title by playing Dan Carroll. This match will likely start about 5:30 o'clock. This match has been eagerly awaited and will bring together two of the finest tennis players in the city.

Immediately after the Wingerd match Mayor Charles Mayne will present the trophy cups to the respective champions. Tully Caiazza, director of the tourney deserves credit for the efficient manner in which the tourney was conducted this year. The tennis tourney idea will very likely be continued next year, as the entries each year are getting larger.

Babe Ruth Needs Rest, Says Doctor

New York Doctor Says, Babe Ruth Will Be Able To Play In World's Series

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—While Babe Ruth remained at home in bed suffering from "slight symptoms of appendicitis," baseball fans were cheered today with announcement the great hitter would probably play with the New York Yankees in the world's series.

Dr. Edward King, Yankee club physician, who examined Ruth after he rushed here from Detroit where he was stricken with stomach pains Wednesday, said Ruth needed a good rest and "probably will be on his feet again in a few days."

"I do not anticipate there will be any necessity for an operation," said Dr. King. "But Ruth is pretty well tired out and needs a good rest."

County Principals Vote To Dissuade Girls' Basketball

Schoolmen's Opinion Only Guide To Boards, Acting Authorities

MEANS EXPRESSION OF SCHOOL CHIEFS

If the opinions of the different township school boards about Lawrence county coincides with that expressed by the county's high school principals, convened as the County Principals' Athletic Association, there won't be any girls' teams entered in next winter's county basketball league.

At least this prediction arose when the principals voted negatively against entering girls' teams in the county leagues this year. The official attitude of the school chiefs came after a discussion as to whether girls' basketball should be retained.

"This is not to be construed as meaning that girls' basketball will be abandoned in the county, for such action must rest with the various school boards, "a member of the principals' group clarified." However," he added, "it does the opinion of the principals' association."

Mushball Teams To Open Series

Lockleys And Radiators Will Play For City League Title

FIRST GAME SET FOR SATURDAY

Lockleys and the National Radiators will play for the City Mushball league title, and the series will be the best out of five. The first game will take place at Lehigh field at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Final arrangements for the series was made by President A. E. "Fiz" Frazer, and Manager Covert of the Radiators and Manager El Lockley of the Lockleys.

The Lockleys won the second half title and the right to play the Radiators by trimming the Smiths, after several hard fought games. The Radiators made a runaway of the first-half of the league season, winning handily.

The second game of the series is set for 6:15 o'clock next Tuesday at Radiator field. The third game will be played at Lehigh on next Thursday. All of the series games will be handled by regular league umpires who have handled the games this year in a very efficient manner.

The Lockleys are the defending champions, having annexed the title in 1931 after a tough schedule.

The coming series should be a fast one, as both teams have a number of stars and they have played some close games this year. The cream of the mushball world of New Castle will be performing in the series.

Scarazzo Captures Lawrence Loop Flag

Scarazzo defeated the Tigers of the West Side 8 to 1 in the final game of the Lawrence County Baseball League Thursday at Centennial Field annexing the league championship.

The teams went into action deadlocked for the bunting but in the second frame of the titular tilt Scarazzo got two runs which would have been sufficient to capture the flag.

Rodenbaugh hurled for the winners. Smolnick gave way to Houston in the 4th inning. Rodenbaugh held the Tigers at bay throughout the game. Scarazzo got 10 hits.

Rodenbaugh, Jones and Cowmeadow came through with triples. McCullough and Travers each collected a two base hit and Fruitt played spectacularly at short.

St. Andrews Club Plans For Meeting

Friday night, September 16, at 8 o'clock is the date set for the St. Andrews Athletic club members to meet with their chairman Mr. Wignall. These meetings held last year proved a big success.

The organization turned out to be one of the strongest clubs in the city, through the work and cooperation of their chairman. They had one of the best basketball teams in the city. This summer they have one of the leading mushball teams.

The St. Andrews mushball team will go to Ellwood City Saturday for the wind-up of the five-game series with the fast Ellwood team. Tonight the St. Andrews team closes their season at Gaston Park by playing the strong West Side Merchants. The St. Andrews team has won 40 games this year.

Cubs And Yanks Increase Leads

Cubs Divide With Boston, While Dodgers Wallop Pirates 12 To 2

INDIANS WIN FROM GROVE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Chicago Cubs, reeling under the shock of four defeats in their last five starts, can thank their lucky stars that the Pirates, their nearest pursuers in the National League race, aren't feeling so chipper themselves.

Burned out by their recent spurt which netted them 14 straight victories and 19 wins in 21 starts, the Cubs are experiencing a very natural reaction. Fortunately for Chicago, the Pirates are suffering the same kind of a let-down, following their recent streak of eleven consecutive triumphs.

Cubs Increase Lead.

The Cubs got no better than an even break in their double-header with Boston yesterday but actually increased their lead over the Pirates, who lost their second straight to Brooklyn. Chicago now leads the Bucs by 5 1-2 games while the Dodgers, waging a desperate fight to finish second, trail Pittsburgh by only three games.

A four run onslaught against Ed Brandt in the eighth inning, enabled Charley Root of the Cubs to gain a 4 to 1 decision over the Braves in the first game, Boston getting only six hits. In the nightcap, two youngsters, Bobby Brown and Bud Tinning, engaged in a tight duel with the Boston hurler getting a 3 to 2 edge, thanks to a homer by Wally Berger and timely doubles by Spohrer and Maranville.

Led by Frank O'Doul, who hit two homers and two singles, the Dodgers nicked three Pittsburgh hurlers for seventeen hits and won in a romp, 12 to 2, behind Clark's steady pitching. Earl Grace, Pittsburgh catcher, made his first error in more than a year.

With Ray Benge yielding only three hits, the Phils again trimmed the Cardinals, 3 to 0. Don Hurst's homer in the first inning, scoring all three runs, ruined the afternoon for Pitcher Tex Carleton of the Cards.

Yanks Trim Tigers.

In the American League, the Yankees stretched their lead over the A's to 13 1-2 games by taking a fourteen inning thriller from Detroit, 6 to 4. Sam Byrd starred with five hits, including two homers, but the winning runs resulted from singles by Gehrig, Dickey and Crosetti.

The nightcap, called because of darkness at the end of the seventh inning, ended in a 7 to 7 deadlock in the final inning the Yanks tallied three runs, but the Tigers scored once in their half to knot the count.

Lefty Grove of the Athletics, who would like to retain his strikeout crown and also win more games than any other pitcher this season, had a bad time of it against Cleveland. He struck out only two men and lost a 2 to 1 decision to Clint Brown when Max Bishop committed a glaring error in the fourth inning. Brown yielded only four hits.

The A's now have lost as many games as the Senators, who subdued the Browns, 3 to 1, and advanced to within two games of second place. Monte Weaver held the Browns to four hits and finally hung up his 20th victory, thanks to Carl Reynolds who made four hits, drove in two Washington runs and scored the third.

Ted Lyons pitched the White Sox to a 4 to 3 win over the Red Sox in ten innings.

MARSHALLS LOSE TO COLONIALS, 4-3

Colonial won from Marshalls four to three on the Colonial field. Booher made a home run and Fachiney hit a double. Marshall out-hit Colonial but two errors helped to lose their game.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.

Marshalls .....000 30—	3	5	2

Batteries: Colonial, Linton and Fachiney; Marshalls, Cannon and Crammer. Umpires, Weber and Hill.

DIAMOND DUST

Orr A. C. defeated the Elder A. C. 2 to 1 on the Elder field. Butler hurled for the winners and Carey for the losers.

Chill played in the infield. He had nine putouts and two assists.

St. Nicholas won from the Second U. P., eight to two at Ben Franklin field. Polenick allowed Second U. P. only two hits.

Smiths would like to play either the East Side Merchants or Ellwood City according to Tip Richards.

Frub Crisci accepted 10 chances with only one error when Smiths beat Crisci 8 to 2.

Amateur Golfers Set For Tourney

Francis Ouimet Will Face Tough Field In Defending Championship

(International News Service)

FIVE FARMS, Md., Sept. 9.—Old man par determined to retain a firm grip on his perch today as half of the one hundred and sixty-five entrants assembled here for the national amateur golf championship.

Francis Ouimet, defending champion, shot a 37-38 yesterday.

Fate has reversed the tableau witnessed by galleryites nineteen years ago at Brookline, Mass., when Ouimet, an unknown spindly caddy of twenty years won the national open in an eighteen hole play-off from Harry Vardon and Ted Ray by five strokes.

Today he is the age of an experienced champion faced by a field of youngsters, one of whom is Billy Dettweiler, Jr., fourteen-year-old Washington, D. C., star, the youngest entrant in the tourney. Dettweiler is paired with Lovan L. Vanzandt, Tulsa, Okla., oldest of the starters. Vanzandt is 49 and father of a son eighteen.

Four of his own young Walker Cup team mates were named by Ouimet today as the outstanding players in the championship. They are Gus Moreland, Dallis, Tex., who was invited to play in the International matches at Brookline after he shot his way to the western amateur championship; Charles Seaver, robust Stanford athlete, George T. Dunlap, Jr., Garden City, twice inter-collegiate champion, and Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., New York.

Track And Field Records May Fall At Yankee Stadium

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Track and field marks that withstood the latest Olympic assault and some of the newer ones may be cracked wide open at the Knights of Columbus' victory meet at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

George Spitz of New York University, world's record holder for the high jump, will attempt to regain some of the prestige lost when he failed to place in that event at Los Angeles. George fastens all his Olympic trouble to an injured ankle which hampered his style.

Stella Walsh, the greatest of women sprinters, will try to better some of her own marks.

Leo Sexton will be aiming at his own shot-put record and Ralph Metcalfe, the negro sprinter, will chase the record for the "300".

OAKLAND REDS TOP NEWS SLUGS

Oakland Reds evened up the series for the Oakland mushball title, last evening at Glasser field, by taking the measure of the News Slugs 12 to 11 in a well played game. McGurk pounded out two home runs. Soho, Boron and Mateja each socked one homer. Mateja on the knoll for the Reds allowed 16 hits, but kept them scattered. Kellar and Uram hurled for the Slugs.

Stribling And Wright Pleased

Local Colored Lads Provided Action In Prelim Bouts

REPORT ROSS TO MANAGE BOXERS

Where's Bearcat Wright and Willie Stribling?

They were the Two Black Crows of local boxing and judging from the way those babies tossed gloves hereabouts they were headin' somewhere when General Depression rode into existence.

Willie loved it, as Jim Dygert, his manager said. Likewise the Bearcat. Both Wright and Stribling came from 'way down south and ne'er threw a glove until they 'hit' New Castle.

They may be in this section and if they are it is probable that their pilot will flood this section with a batch of news concerning their fall and winter plans.

The roly-poly boy today gave us an earful about Frankie Ross, who showed Romeo Pacelli how to hold up his hands. Yet siree, the roly poly lad who provides us with info, now and then says Frankie is figuring on becoming a fight manager.

Cangey Training

Frankie certainly worked wonders with Romeo who went good for quite a stretch. He also handled the reins for Frankie Lands and now that he proposes to return as a manager of boxers some of the boys who are looking for a manager will page Frankie.

Paris Cangey of the Seventh ward has hied into training again, the roly poly informant declares. Cangie has not milled for some time but never having dissipated Cangey can climb into shape within a few weeks.

Every now and then one sees Jonnny Jennings, the former 135 pounder. Johnny now weighs about 160. He was one of the most likeable chaps who has milled in the city. Quiet and conservative outside the ring, he was a thriller inside the ropes.

ST. VITUS GIRLS DEFEAT SAVANNAH

St. Vitus girls mushball team won from Savannah M. E. two to one at Savannah. It was the fifteenth victory for St. Vitus girls. Carbone pitched a good game. He fanned nine and allowed five hits. McFerry was hit eight times. Johnson and Carbone hit triples.

Violent Waves Of Buying And Selling In Market Today

TELEPHONE IS LEADER OF DAY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Further violent price changes marked the stock market today as alternate waves of buying and selling swept the list.

There were a few outstanding issues. N. Y. Central was taken in volume around last night's close. Johns Manville ruled higher. American Telephone was a stubborn leader. Lorillard and Gillette were firm specialties.

U. S. Steel was under pressure all forenoon and ran into heavy offerings on every bulge, Bethlehem on the other hand was up substantially. Consolidated Gas showed support slightly under yesterday's close, steadying the other utilities.

Copper stocks were weak, losing 1 to 2 points each on lower prices for the metal abroad and a slump in futures on the London metal exchange.

Rails were mixed. Southern Pacific was consistently strong with Central. Baltimore & Ohio and Lackawanna were erratic. Auburn held within a relatively narrow range but the whole motor list continued to show profit-taking. Commodities were mixed.

An Invitation Via Ox-Cart

The era, laughingly referred to as the good old days, is recalled by this method of presenting an invitation to President Hoover. Sumption (right) are shown as they invited the President to attend the Shenandoah pageant at Harrisburg, Va.

Looks Like an Early Fall

Approve Plan For Added Safety To Fire Menace Here

Council Considers Installation And Relocation Of Fire Hydrants

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 9.—A recommendation of Fire Chief H. T. Plante and Borough Manager Lowell W. Monroe which would mean added protection to the community against fire in Ellwood City, was referred back to them and the Fire and Water Committee for a further investigation and study by council at their monthly meeting in the borough building last night.

The plan presented was the installation of 22 additional fire hydrants about the city including two relocations in such a manner that very little difficulty would be experienced in obtaining water to fight a fire anywhere within the borough limits. The borough manager pointed out that little expense would go for this since this type of work is done by the local water company gratis. The borough would only have to pay for the two relocations and the annual fee of $200 for the use of all hydrants.

Several councilman were anxious to put the plan into operation at the earliest moment but met with objections from Councilman Rocco, a member of the Fire and Water committee who requested for a further consideration which was granted. The plan had been devised after making a careful study of a map of the city.

Beatrice is only 12 years old and is already a steeplejack of renown in her home town, Fort Worth, Texas. She is shown here changing light bulbs in the dome of the City Hall. She and her 14-year-old sister, Juanita, help their father in his duties as a steeplejack and fireman.

Council Transacts Monthly Business

Regular Meeting Is Held In Boro Building On Thursday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 9.—Thru Burgess Judd C. Turner, the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce requested permission to erect a sign across Lawrence avenue at the borough council meeting in their rooms last night. The request was granted.

Upon recommendation of the Finance committee headed by G. H. Morrison, council will not accede to the request of attorneys in the Smiley case. The borough refuses to settle for the amount of $200 for the alleged damage to the Smiley property upon construction of the Wampum avenue road. Council will consider the matter only from the point of the viewers in the case who set the damages at $65.

The monthly report of the local fire department revealed that there was only one fire for the month of August for which firemen received $47 for their services. In the police report five arrests were made for the month of which two were discharged; two fined; one forfeited, for a total of $25 of fines and forfeits.

There were two contagious cases reported in the city according to the monthly report of the health department.

Council Shelves Gamewell Police Signal System

Economy Program Will Not Permit Installation Of New System Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 9.—As a result of a reconsideration and conference the police and finance committee to whom was referred the matter of the installation of the Gamewell Police Signal System here, council will temporary shelve the proposition of the company in order to comply with a previous economy program outlined in this city. This was offered as a recommendation by both committees which was accepted by council.

The merits of the new and present system were both given much consideration and it was without doubt the committees agreed that the Gamewell system had the advantage. The general opinion was that the present system was efficient for this size of a community. It was further pointed out by G. H. Morrison, chairman of the finance committee, that the real saving would be only realized if the system was purchased outright, which the borough was not prepared to do. Also there was certain added maintenance cost that had been previously overlooked.

This proposition was laid on the table until conditions take an upturn, council decided.

Petition Court For Opinion On Tax Situation

Accept Recommendation Of Finance Committee To Present Petition

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 9—Borough Council of Ellwood City will present a petition to the Court of Common Pleas of Lawrence County to render a declaratory judgement determining the issues of the tax problem in this city and of the status and legal relations of the borough in reference to certain taxes assessed and levied here. This action was a result of a recommendation made by the Finance Committee of Council.

In the above petition council will outline to the court the present difficulties between the borough and Tax Collector T. A. E. McConahy.

The whole matter hinges around the point that a sum of $5053.36 is still due the borough, exclusive of the exonerations made and the properties accepted for filing. The tax collector is therefore unable to settle up his 1930-31 tax duplicates in order to obtain bond to make him eligible to receive taxes for the year of 1932.

The borough council granted an appeal of an extension of time from Mr. McConahy, before a final decision on the tax problem is rendered. Mr. McConahy's attorney was unable to be present last night. Tuesday, Sept. 13 was the date set for the decision. Mr. Morrison at this time pointed out that the finance committee has completed its work and the rest is up to council for action.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

On the desk here today is a stone. A jagged piece of sandstone of about ordinary throwing size. A stone that is no different than any other stone save for a peculiar pattern that is pressed into the face of it. A pattern that is a record of what happened in this section a million years ago or somewhere near that.

William Sandman of 708 Brooklyn Avenue brought the stone in and asked if we had any idea what the pattern was. In appearance it looks as though a diamond treaded automobile tire had gone through concrete before it hardened. Or again it looks as though a piece of diamond meshed wire had been pressed into the stone.

Neither are right of course. The answer is that in the Carboniferous Age, or the Coal Age if you want it in shorter terms, there were Lepidodendron Aculeatum growing where Cascade Park now is. Again quoting a simpler name, the L. A. is known as a Giant Clubmoss.

Some of the Clubmosses grew to the size of trees and were covered with spinelike or dagger like leaves. The leaves dropped into the clay that was later to be stone and the impress of the face of the leave was left in it.

In the center of each of the diamond markings there is a depression which was made by the point of the spines on the leaf and in two of the depressions the tiny spine is still in there, petrified. The impress of the leave is deep and clear and when Mr. Sandman said the specimen was ours, it was one of those thrills that come all too seldom.

By this time you are asking the question "what does this egg know about geology?" Not much pardner, not much, but we're quoting the Curator of Botany of Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, O. E. Jennings. When Mr. Sandman picked up the specimen we have, he also picked another one, a trifle larger. This he sent to the museum for analysis and the botanical information you read above comes from Mr. Jennings.

How old the stone is would have to be figured out by some one who knows geology. Unless we're mistaken the Carboniferous or Coal Age happened along when the earth was cooling back before the days of the Glacier, probably long before the diplodocus got his lunch from alongside the Big Run.

Alongside of this specimen the age of King Tut's tomb is nothing at all. Tut's age can be computed on one hand. This specimen was made when the world itself was young, sometime after the mists rose from the earth, and the waters receded and land began to show.

There have been many queer things brought into this corner of The News many of them interesting but until somebody brings along something older or queerer, Mr. Sandman's trophy stands alone.

If we ever get around to it we're going to take up geology in a serious way. To be able to read the writings of Dame Nature on the rocks to interpret those messages on the walls of shale along the Slippery Rock, to be able to segregate specimens in their proper order, is something that intrigues us no end.

This one actually happened. A lady was registering yesterday. The registrar read off the questions and when she came to the one "Color," the lady answered 'tanned."

Business was dull around the registry booths. You could get an argument started in any one of them, if you were that kind of a lad. Hughey Horton had a daisy started in the Fire House on Park Avenue, but a hurry up call left him one down to his opponent..

Looks as though the rumor we got about the speeding on the streets had something to it. And from now on customers, use a light foot on the throttle.
